EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- Benign July US CPI and PPI prints reduced near-term tightening concerns, lifting the S&P 500 ▲0.36% WoW to 7,785.76, though softer retail sales and firmer crude left the September policy outlook mixed.
- Egypt's EGX 30 was Africa's only advancing market ▲1.05%, while the NGX ASI fell ▼1.20% to 242,619.20 (▲55.91% YTD), shedding ₦3.80tn across five consecutive sessions from Monday's record ₦160.42tn.
- Consumer Goods collapsed ▼6.72% to 4,037.91 on BUA Foods ▼10.00% and Unilever ▼18.94%, while Airtel Africa ▲8.59% to ₦6,300 became the exchange's most capitalised stock at ₦23.68tn.
- The naira firmed ▼0.50% WoW to ₦1,358.38/$ with reserves at a 17-year high of $52.19bn, and Brent gained ▲7.43% to $88.38 as the FGN 10-yr yield rose 11bps to 17.33%.
- Geregu Power defaulted on its ₦40.09bn Series 1 bond, reported as Nigeria's first major corporate bond default since 2019, with market breadth weak at 0.48x advance/decline.

Market Outlook — Coming Week

- The July CPI print is the decisive release: a fourth consecutive sub-16% reading (June: 15.91%) would strengthen the case for a September MPC cut and trigger the fixed-income-to-equity rotation; an upside surprise keeps the MPR anchored at 26.5%.
- Attractive short-duration fixed income is likely constraining incremental domestic institutional demand for equities, after Thursday's OMO auction drew ₦4.93tn in bids against ₦600bn offered at a 20.39% stop rate; banking leadership at Zenith 9.22x and Access 9.61x therefore requires a yield-curve catalyst rather than earnings alone.
- Dividend qualification dates provide selective large-cap support: Custodian Investment's ₦0.25 interim (17 Aug) and MTN Nigeria's ₦26.00 (20 Aug), the latter following MTNN's ▼4.73% week as the heaviest index drag.
- Watch whether the Geregu default proves idiosyncratic or repricing for wider corporate credit, particularly with Agusto's ratings withdrawn; separately, publication of the Dangote Refinery prospectus would begin resetting index weights, with press reporting now pointing to an offer process running into October rather than a September listing.

Global Markets Commentary

- Benign July CPI and PPI prints reduced near-term Fed tightening concerns, lifting the S&P 500 ▲0.36% WoW to 7,785.76 after Thursday’s record close. Softer retail sales and higher crude nonetheless left the September policy outlook mixed, and the index fell ▼0.17% on Friday.
- Asia drove global returns: KOSPI ▲11.49% WoW and ▲61.92% YTD, Nikkei ▲4.74% and ▲32.57% YTD, on AI infrastructure earnings. Europe’s STOXX 600 ▼0.36% and Shanghai ▼0.33% lagged, the latter ▼2.39% YTD. The KOSPI close of 6,977.94 remains 25.7% below its 52-week high of 9,385.59, so the YTD gain reflects recovery from a low base rather than a new peak.
- Strait of Hormuz closure kept a geopolitical premium embedded in crude, Brent ▲1.73% Friday to $88.58 despite OPEC cutting 2026 demand growth to 580,000 bpd, sustaining terms-of-trade support for frontier hydrocarbon exporters including Nigeria and Angola.
- US 30-year yields closed at 5.2561% after Thursday's auction cleared at 5.216%, the highest since 2001, while the dollar index ▼0.31% to 99.65 on soft retail sales. Gold ▲0.52% to $4,372.99 caps a supportive week for reserve-holders.

Frontier Africa Commentary

- Egypt's EGX 30 led the region at ▲1.05% WoW to 55,251.59, the only advancing market, as four of five African indices retreated. South Africa's JSE All Share was the worst performer at ▼2.94% to 114,060.88, tracking global risk-off and the sole market negative YTD at ▼1.53%.

- Ghana's cedi appreciated ▲7.42% WoW to GHS10.85/$, the largest FX move on the board, while the GSE Composite fell ▼1.62% to 14,310.00. The cedi is nonetheless ▼0.46% YTD, so the weekly gain retraces earlier depreciation rather than extending a trend.
- Naira strength persisted, official USD/NGN ▼0.50% to ₦1,358.38 and ▼6.09% YTD, with the parallel (BDC) rate at ₦1,421.50, a spread of 4.65%. Nigeria retains regional leadership at ▲55.91% YTD despite ▼1.14% WoW, ranking second to Ghana's ▲73.14%.
- Deal pipeline is reopening after years of currency-driven valuation drag, anchored by Dangote Refinery's proposed NGX listing, reported at up to $5bn, alongside Asahi's $2.3bn purchase of Diageo's East African beer assets and Nedbank's $855m bid for control of Kenya's NCBA Group.

SECTION 3 | NIGERIA — MARKET PULSE

52	0.48x	224,146	126,689.54 – 254,067.42

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX All-Share Index closed at 242,770.94, down 2,802.66 points or ▼1.14% WoW, reversing the prior week's ▲0.12% gain and trimming YTD return to ▲55.91% from ▲57.81%. Market capitalisation contracted ₦1.89tn to ₦156.62tn. The index sits 4.4% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42 and 91.6% above the 52-week low of 126,689.54.
- Turnover rose against falling prices. Volume increased to 6.74bn shares from 5.36bn, up 25.8% WoW, with value traded at ₦176.06bn versus ₦139.05bn, up 26.6%. Deals fell 14.4% to 224,146 from 261,869, so average transaction size rose materially. The combination is consistent with increased selling pressure at larger ticket sizes; investor-category data would be required to attribute it to institutional accounts.
- Breadth stayed negative but improved marginally. Advancers rose to 30 from 26 against 63 decliners unchanged, lifting the advance/decline ratio to 0.48x from 0.41x. Unchanged counters fell to 52 from 58.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- Consumer Goods was the week's worst sector, collapsing ▼6.72% to 4,037.91 and ▼12.11% QtD, driven by near-limit-down moves in BUA Foods (▼10.00% to ₦760.60 Wednesday), Unilever Nigeria (▼9.97% on consecutive sessions to ₦118.30) and Dangote Sugar (▼7.79% to ₦64.55 Friday). The Main Board Index held up best at ▼0.20% to 10,917.48, cushioned by its broader constituent base.
- Insurance ranked second-worst at ▼2.72% to 1,128.74 and is the only major equity sector negative YTD at ▼5.09%, despite International Energy Insurance and Guinea Insurance topping Friday's gainers, consistent with selective repositioning rather than uniform selling.
- Banking fell ▼1.48% to 2,548.02 but retains the strongest quarterly momentum at ▲23.09% QtD and ▲68.09% YTD. Oil & Gas was the most defensive major sector at ▼0.74%, holding ▲94.81% YTD leadership. The Sovereign Bond Index was flat at 668.35.
- Relative performance has shifted in favour of banks and defensives, while Consumer Goods recorded the sharpest correction. Watch whether Banking's ▲0.81% MoM gain, the only positive monthly reading among cyclicals, converts into leadership next week.

Market Movers Commentary

- Airtel Africa ▲8.59% to ₦6,300.00 on 201,458 shares, a 52-week high that lifted market capitalisation to ₦23.68tn and made it the NGX's most capitalised stock, a structural shift in index leadership achieved on negligible float turnover. The entire weekly move was recorded in Monday's session.
- Fortis Global Insurance ▲11.54% to ₦2.90 dominated volume at 4.46bn shares, yet closed Friday ▼9.31%, classic speculative churn. AVA Capital ▼30.91% to ₦7.60 on ₦565m turnover marks the week's sharpest capitulation.

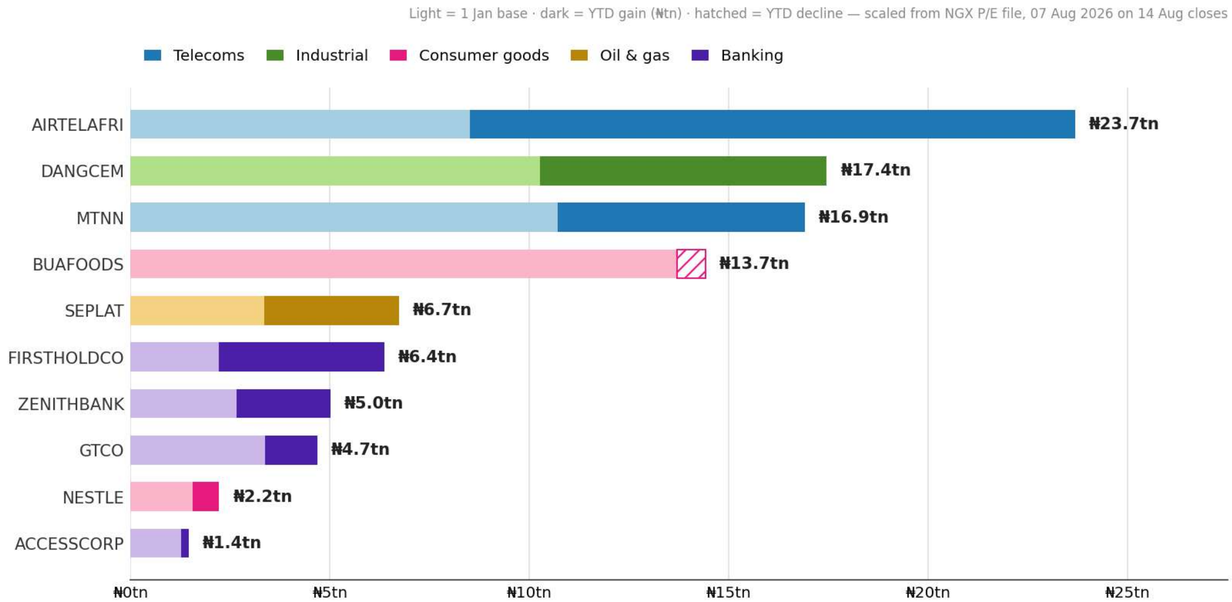
Market Movers Commentary

- Large-caps lagged the ASI's ▼1.14%, with five of ten watch-list names down, one unchanged, and MTN Nigeria ▼4.73% to ₦805.00 the heaviest index drag. Tier-1 bank valuations remain attractive at the individual-stock level: Zenith ▼2.70% to ₦122.60 at 9.22x and Access ▲0.37% to ₦27.05 at 9.61x, both well inside GTCO's 18.10x despite Zenith's ▲89% YTD.
- Airtel Africa ▲8.59% to ₦6,300.00 was the largest advancer, extending YTD gains to ▲178%. Seplat's ▼1.44% coincided with the ₦163.27 ex-dividend adjustment of 14 August and should not be read as an equivalent deterioration in underlying value. MTN's 79,108x and Dangote Cement's 1,644x P/Es are artefacts of depressed trailing EPS, not usable multiples.

NGX Large Cap: Market Cap, YTD Performance and Sector



Market Movers Commentary

Airtel Africa extended its lead to ₦23.68tn, up ₦1.87tn WoW on an ▲8.59% move to ₦6,300.00, and is the most capitalised stock on the NGX by a ₦6.23tn margin. The ₦300bn second-place gap flagged last week resolved: Dangote Cement (₦17.45tn, unchanged at ₦1,034.00) overtook MTN Nigeria (₦16.90tn, ▼4.73% to ₦805.00) for second. All capitalisations below are taken from the NGX P/E file of 14 August 2026.

- Telecoms (blue) — Airtel Africa ₦23.68tn at ₦6,300.00 (▲178% YTD), a fresh 52-week high on 201,458 shares; MTNN ₦16.90tn at ₦805.00 (▼4.73% WoW, ▲58% YTD), the week's largest single index drag.
- Industrial (green) — Dangote Cement ₦17.45tn, unchanged at ₦1,034.00 for a second week (▲70% YTD).
- Consumer goods (pink) — BUA Foods ₦13.69tn at ₦760.60, ▼10.00% WoW and now the only large-cap negative YTD at ▼5%, on a ~5% free float. Nestlé ₦2.22tn at ₦2,800.00 (▲1.82%), the sole consumer-goods gainer in an index down ▼6.72%.
- Oil & gas (amber) — Seplat ₦6.72tn at ₦11,200.60 (▲100% YTD); the ▼1.44% WoW coincided with the ₦163.27 ex-dividend adjustment of 14 August.
- Banking (purple) — First HoldCo ₦6.37tn (▼3.71%, ▲187% YTD, 60.13x); Zenith ₦5.04tn (▼2.70%, 9.22x); GTCO ₦4.70tn (▲0.39%, 18.10x); Access ₦1.47tn (▲0.37%, 9.61x).

Last week's concentration risk materialised. Zenith and First HoldCo fell while GTCO and Access were near-flat, and the index declined ▼1.20% despite Airtel adding ₦1.87tn. Excluding Airtel, the remaining nine watch-list names shed ₦2.78tn of capitalisation on the exchange file, with BUA Foods (▼₦1.52tn) and MTN Nigeria (▼₦0.84tn) accounting for most of it. Index leadership now rests on a single telecom counter trading on minimal volume.

- USD/NGN closed at ₦1,358.38 on the NAFEM official window, ▼0.50% WoW and ▼6.09% YTD; CBN's published NFEM closing rate was ₦1,358.25. The parallel (BDC) rate stood at ₦1,421.50, a spread of 4.65%. GBP/NGN was near flat at ₦1,835.45 (▲0.10%), while EUR/NGN ▼0.82% to ₦1,571.10 as the euro reached $1.1567 on weak US retail sales. Friday interbank turnover was $119.59m across 137 deals.
- CBN held the MPR at 26.5% at its 300th MPC meeting on 21 July, a second consecutive hold. Headline CPI stood at 15.91% YoY in June, down marginally from 15.93% in May; the July print remains unpublished. The FGN 10-year yield rose ▲11bp to 17.33% from 17.22%. Two liquidity actions matter: CBN removed the restriction barring NFEM and primary-auction participants from the Standing Lending Facility, and Thursday's OMO auction drew ₦4.93tn in bids, with the 138-day bill covered over 12x at a 20.39% stop rate. Fixed income at 20% is competing directly with equities for domestic institutional allocation.
- Brent gained ▲7.43% WoW to $88.38 on the Strait of Hormuz closure and renewed tanker attacks. Reserves eased ▼0.46% to $52.26bn on the vendor series, against CBN's published $52.19bn at 12 August, a 17-year high and ▲28.39% YoY. Gold ▲0.77% to $4,375.60/oz. The Bonny Light differential to Brent is under source verification and is not commented on this week.
- Events to watch next week: NBS July 2026 CPI release, expected c. 17 August | Custodian Investment interim dividend qualification, Monday 17 August | MTN Nigeria ₦26.00 interim dividend qualification, Thursday 20 August.

SECTION 8 | NIGERIA — MARKET METRICS & VALUATION

Valuation Metrics

Metric	Current (14 Aug 2026)	Prior Week (07 Aug 2026)	Change
NGX Main Board Cap-Weighted P/E Proxy	38.98x*	39.20x	▼ −0.22
Banking Sector avg P/E	18.12x	18.27x	▼ −0.15
Consumer Goods avg P/E	57.42x	57.64x	▼ −0.22
Oil & Gas avg P/E	38.24x	38.52x	▼ −0.28
Market Dividend Yield (avg)	▲ 3.75% (carried forward)	▲ 3.75% (carried forward)	n/a

The NGX Main Board Cap-Weighted P/E Proxy uses the NGX Main Board weighted-ratio total (38.98x, from 39.20x last week). It is computed only from constituents that report usable P/E data and is not equivalent to a conventional aggregate market P/E. It excludes the Premium Board's extreme outliers (MTNN 79,107.7x; Dangote Cement 1,644.1x). Main Board market capitalisation totalled ₦94.54tn (from ₦94.71tn) against a Premium Board total of ₦61.33tn (from ₦63.04tn). The ₦1.71tn Premium Board contraction reverses last week's ₦1.0tn rise, driven by MTN Nigeria (▼4.73%), Lafarge Africa (▼7.22%) and First HoldCo (▼3.71%).

Sector averages are simple (equal-weighted) averages of constituents across all boards that carry a reported P/E, excluding any individual constituent with a P/E above 100x as a statistical outlier — consistent with the treatment applied to the headline Market P/E figure. Constituent counts are unchanged from last week in all three sectors, so every move below is genuine re-rating rather than composition change.

Banking (7 constituents, unchanged) excludes Wema Bank (746.6x, from 723.9x) and Jaiz Bank (294.1x, unchanged), both still distorted by post-recapitalisation EPS dilution. First HoldCo (60.13x, from 62.45x) and Access Corp (9.61x, from 9.58x) sit under the NGX Other Financial Institutions subsector and are outside the Banking average by classification. Zenith remains the cheapest bank on the list at 9.22x (from 9.47x), with UBA at 11.24x and ETI at 13.73x. The −0.15 move means the sector multiple compressed alongside a ▼1.48% weekly price decline, so valuation support improved at the margin; attributing that to earnings growth would require constituent earnings data.

Consumer Goods (8 constituents, unchanged): Cadbury re-rated to 96.80x from 90.71x on a ▲6.71% cap gain and is the sole upward pull; without it the seven-name average would be 51.79x, from 52.91x. Dangote Sugar is the cheapest constituent at 21.08x (from 23.84x, cap ▼11.57%), ahead of NB (42.45x) and McNichols (43.29x). Nestlé re-rated to 67.79x from 66.58x. Unilever's multiple fell to 297.8x from 367.4x on an ▼18.95% cap decline but stays excluded above 100x, so the sector's largest single price move is not captured in this average. Champion (1,069.5x), Guinness (192.5x), NASCON (146.1x), NNFM (145.0x) and PZ (160.6x) also stay excluded.

Oil & Gas (5 constituents: Japaul Gold, Oando, Conoil, Eterna, Seplat) is an unadjusted simple average and is not representative of the sector: Japaul Gold at 0.25x depresses it materially, and the median constituent multiple is 48.07x. It excludes TotalEnergies Marketing Nigeria (117.6x, unchanged); Aradel is excluded as it reports no P/E despite an unchanged ₦6.63tn capitalisation. The −0.28 move is driven by Oando (13.87x from 14.12x), Seplat (52.66x from 53.43x, reflecting the ₦163.27 ex-dividend adjustment of 14 August) and Eterna (48.07x from 48.48x); Conoil is static at 76.35x.

Market Dividend Yield is carried forward unchanged for a third consecutive edition; NGX did not publish an updated market-wide yield in the week to 14 Aug 2026. The next scheduled update is the monthly NGX factsheet.

Corporate action note: Lafarge Africa (HBMNG) capitalisation fell ▼7.22% to ₦5.38tn with its multiple compressing to 116.5x from 125.6x, the largest Premium Board decline of the week; the name does not appear in the Section 5 top-10 losers table, which is drawn from a separate extract. AVA Capital capitalisation fell 34.55% against a 30.91% price decline, and NPF Micro Finance Bank shows a 10.99% capitalisation decline against a 12.09% price move, in both cases implying share-count changes not separately disclosed in the file. The source file continues to carry legacy security names (NEIMETH as Pfizer Products Plc; FTGINSURE as Standard Alliance Insurance), a triplicated issuer string for AIRTELAFRI, and Chapel Hill Denhem for NIDF and NREIT.

Source hierarchy: prices in Sections 4 and 5 are taken from the NGX closing-price file, which governs where sources differ — Zenith ₦122.60 (▼2.70%), Access ₦27.05 (▲0.37%) and GTCO ₦128.50 (▲0.39%). Earlier drafts carried Thursday 13 August closes for Access and GTCO and have been restated.
* Methodology note: the 38.98x proxy is unscreened and distorted by extreme multiples; Presco (775.0x) and Okomu Oil (251.9x) alone contribute 13.68 points. Removing those two, on the basis used in prior editions, gives 25.30x (from 25.51x); that series is labelled ex-agriculture from this edition. A full screen of every Main Board constituent above 100x removes 35.03 points and yields 3.95x, which is not an economically meaningful multiple, because the NGX weighted ratio sums only constituents that report a P/E while weighting them against total market capitalisation. All three figures are disclosed; the unscreened number is retained as the headline solely to preserve series comparability.

Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI)

Metric	Current (June-26)	Prior (May-26)	Trend
FPI Buy Value (₦ bn)	71.71	87.60	↓
FPI Sell Value (₦ bn)	115.08	96.01	↑
FPI Buy/Sell Ratio	0.62	0.91	↓
FPI Net Flow (₦ bn)	-43.37	-8.41	↓ (more negative)
FPI as % of Total Turnover	10.90%	9.45%	↑

Source: NGX Domestic & Foreign Portfolio Investment Report, June 2026. Total market transactions fell 11.82% MoM to ₦1.71359tn from ₦1.94325tn in May, even as total foreign transactions rose 1.73% MoM to ₦0.18679tn (₦186.79bn) from ₦0.18361tn — the FPI share-of-turnover increase (9.45% → 10.90%) is a function of the shrinking total pie, not stronger foreign conviction, as the Buy/Sell ratio and Net Flow both worsened. Exchange rate used: ₦1,379.68/$1 (NAFEM, 30 Jun 2026), versus ₦1,373.25/$1 in May.

Valuation Commentary

- Banking's 18.12x sector average conceals a wide internal spread: Zenith at 9.22x and Access at 9.61x against GTCO's 18.10x and First HoldCo's 60.13x, the last sitting outside the Banking average by NGX classification. Seplat at 52.66x and Nestlé at 67.79x are not cheap on trailing earnings. Dangote Cement prints 1,644.11x on depressed trailing EPS and BUA Foods publishes no P/E against ₦13.69tn of capitalisation, so neither is usable for valuation work.
- FPI flows deteriorated in June: foreign buying fell to ₦71.71bn against ₦115.08bn in sales, a net outflow of -₦43.37bn versus -₦8.41bn in May. Foreign share of turnover actually rose to 10.90% from 9.45%, but only because total market turnover contracted faster than foreign activity — not a signal of renewed international conviction.

SECTION 9 | INVESTMENT THEME

Theme — Banking Outperformance Despite Elevated Fixed-Income Yields

OBSERVATION	The NGX index has decoupled from its constituents. The ASI fell ▼1.20% to 242,619.20 this week on breadth of 30 advancers against 63 decliners, an advance/decline ratio of 0.48x, while Airtel Africa alone added ₦1.87tn of capitalisation on 201,458 shares traded. Excluding Airtel, the remaining nine large-cap watch-list names shed ₦2.78tn on the exchange file. The market retains a ▲55.91% YTD return delivered by a narrowing set of counters.
DRIVER	Short-duration government paper is priced to attract domestic institutional capital. Thursday’s OMO auction drew ₦4.93tn in bids against ₦600bn offered, with the 138-day bill covered over 12x at a 20.39% stop rate, against an FGN 10-year at 17.33% and an MPR held at 26.5% for a second consecutive meeting. This is likely constraining incremental domestic demand for equities, although auction data alone do not establish that the same capital would otherwise be allocated to equities. Foreign capital is not filling the gap: June 2026 foreign flows were a net ▼₦43.37bn outflow on 10.90% of turnover, with the FTSE Russell reclassification review paused pending assessment of the T+1 transition. Deals fell 14.4% to 224,146 while volume rose 25.8%, indicating a higher average transaction size.
IMPLICATION	Index-level exposure now carries concentration risk that the headline return conceals, so position at the constituent level. Tier-1 banks are the cleanest expression: Zenith at 9.22x and Access at 9.61x on ▲89% and ▲15% YTD respectively, priced for the recapitalisation dilution and NPL cycle the CBN has flagged rather than for a 26.5% MPR that eventually falls. Screen on CET1, post-recapitalisation share count and cost of risk, not historical ROE. Consumer goods at a 57.42x sector average against ▼6.72% weekly price action is the opposite trade: a sector that remains vulnerable to further de-rating if weak volume growth persists, with Nigerian Breweries H1 profit ▲18% to ₦156.3bn illustrating the gap between reported naira growth and underlying units. The binding constraint on a broader re-rating is the FGN yield curve, not corporate earnings.
RISK	A sustained CBN easing cycle would invalidate the rotation case by pulling domestic institutional capital back into equities and lifting breadth; the July CPI print (June: 15.91%) and the September MPC are the near-term tests. On the downside, the thesis weakens if Geregu Power’s ₦40.09bn bond default proves systemic rather than idiosyncratic; it is reported as Nigeria’s first major corporate bond default since 2019, and Agusto’s rating withdrawal removes the independent credit reference. Renewed naira weakness reverses the bank-versus-exporter positioning, and 2027 election-cycle fiscal expansion would keep yields elevated regardless of the inflation path. Separately, the Dangote Refinery listing is a market-structure catalyst rather than a risk to the banking view: at a valuation near $40bn and ₦1,358/$, it could increase aggregate NGX market capitalisation by roughly one-third, depending on final pricing, the proportion listed and the treatment of unlisted shares.

Sectoral Outlook — Coming Week

Sector	View	Conviction	Rationale
Banking	OW	H	Large-cap banking valuations remain attractive at the individual-stock level, particularly Zenith at 9.22x and Access at 9.61x, against ▲68.09% YTD and ▲23.09% QtD sector performance. The sector multiple compressed ▼0.15 despite the ▼1.48% weekly decline, so valuation support improved at the margin. Catalyst: falling bond yields. Invalidation: persistent inflation, rising yields or credit deterioration.
Consumer Goods	UW	H	Worst sector at ▼6.72% WoW and ▼12.11% QtD yet still the most expensive at a 57.42x average, with BUA Foods ▼10.00%, Unilever ▼18.94% and Dangote Sugar ▼7.79%. The sector remains vulnerable to further de-rating if weak volume growth persists.
Oil & Gas	N	M	Sector leads on ▲94.81% YTD and Brent ▲7.43% WoW to $88.38 supports the top line, but Seplat's ex-dividend date has passed, Oando carries a ₦3.76tn working-capital deficit, and the 38.24x average is distorted by Japaul Gold at 0.25x.
Industrial Goods	N	M	▼1.22% WoW on ▲82.84% YTD with Dangote Cement flat at ₦1,034 for a second week; the LSE secondary listing approved at the 2 July AGM is the catalyst.
Insurance	UW	M	Only major equity sector negative YTD at ▼5.09% and the sharpest Friday decliner at ▼1.49%, with names such as International Energy Insurance rallying on speculative volume rather than fundamentals, consistent with repositioning rather than accumulation.
Telco (MTN/Airtel)	UW	L	Airtel Africa at ₦23.68tn now anchors index direction on 201,458 shares of weekly turnover, and MTN Nigeria fell ▼4.73% to ₦805 as the week's largest drag; conviction is low because neither name publishes a usable P/E.

▲ BULLISH FACTORS

- Reserves at a 17-year high of $52.19bn on 12 August, ▲28.39% YoY from $40.65bn, with the naira at ₦1,358.38 official and ▼6.09% YTD, giving the CBN room to ease without triggering FX instability.
- Tier-1 banking valuations remain undemanding after ▲68.09% YTD, with Zenith at 9.22x and Access at 9.61x versus GTCO's 18.10x, and First HoldCo H1 PAT ▲81.6% to ₦526.13bn under a new policy distributing a minimum 60% of annual PAT.
- Dangote Refinery's IPO application is progressing, with the SEC signalling no anticipated delays. The July private placement of $2.5bn, reported 3.7x oversubscribed, implied a valuation near $40bn; final IPO size and pricing remain subject to the

▼ BEARISH RISKS

- Breadth has deteriorated to an advance/decline ratio of 0.48x on 30 advancers against 63 decliners, and the market shed ₦3.80tn over five consecutive sessions from Monday's ₦160.42tn peak, its sharpest weekly reversal since the June correction.
- Short-duration fixed income is likely constraining incremental domestic institutional demand for equities: Thursday's OMO auction drew ₦4.93tn in bids against ₦600bn offered at a 20.39% stop rate, with the FGN 10-year at 17.33% and the MPR held at 26.5%.
- Geregu Power's default on the ₦40.09bn Series 1 bond is Nigeria's first major corporate bond default since March 2019, compounded by Agusto & Co withdrawing its A-/A1 ratings on 14 August after offering process. At that valuation and ₦1,358/$, a listing could increase aggregate NGX market capitalisation by roughly one-third, depending on the proportion listed and the treatment of unlisted shares.	management commissioned an independent review of the financial statements.

Events to Watch — Next Week

Date	Event Type	Details & Why It Matters
17 Aug 2026	NBS July 2026 CPI release (June: 15.91% YoY)	A fourth consecutive disinflation print strengthens the case for a September MPC cut, which would trigger the fixed-income-to-equity rotation and broaden breadth beyond banks.
20 Aug 2026	MTN Nigeria ₦26.00 interim dividend qualification	Largest qualification date of the month; expect support into the date and a mechanical adjustment after, with MTN already ▼4.73% and the heaviest index drag this week.
September 2026 (date unconfirmed)	Dangote Refinery NGX listing — prospectus publication awaited; press reporting points to an offer process running into October	The single largest swing factor for market capitalisation in H2. Watch PFA allocation under the 13 May PenCom circular and the effect on index weights. No listing date has been formally approved by the SEC.
