INSTITUTIONAL MARKET INTELLIGENCE

Nigeria

Report Date 07 Sep 2026	Coverage Period 31 Aug – 04 Sep 2026	Prepared By Equinox Research	Edition Vol. 1 No. 11

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- Brent's ▲ +7.80% climb to $96.28/bbl on renewed US-Iran strikes drove a global bond selloff, leaving STOXX 600 ▼ 0.81%, Nikkei ▼ 2.09% and the S&P 500 barely positive at ▲ +0.09%.
- The NGX ASI led frontier Africa at ▲ +2.36% WoW to 246,992.44 and ▲ +58.72% YTD on ₦210.33bn of weekly equity value traded, lifting capitalisation to ₦159.56tn, with Kenya's NSE ▲ +2.83% close behind.
- Oil and Gas led all sectors at ▲ +9.10% on Seplat's ▲ +10.00% limit-up to ₦13,552.60, while Industrial Goods fell ▼ 0.35% and NASCON dropped ▼ 17.23%, the week's worst move.
- The naira appreciated ▲ +1.51% WoW to ₦1,320.18/$, a two-year high, as reserves reached an 18-year peak of $54.08bn, with the MPR held at 26.50% and July CPI at 15.43%.
- Dangote Refinery's ₦2.15tn base offer opens on 14 Sep 2026 and the FTSE Russell reclassification takes effect on 21 Sep 2026, though July FPI net outflow of ₦49.44bn shows the flow base deteriorating rather than stabilising. FTSE has identified 31 Nigerian constituents, 10 of them large cap; on Equinox estimates Nigeria enters at roughly 13.8% of the index, second only to Morocco, with trackers executing into the 18 Sep close (see Section 10).
- We remain Overweight Banking, but the call is now a stock call rather than a sector call: First HoldCo at 64.4x against Zenith at 9.7x means intra-sector dispersion, not sector selection, should drive returns from here.

Market Outlook — Coming Week

- Positioning should stay concentrated rather than broad. Breadth improved to a 2.13x advance/decline ratio and the ₦3.73tn capitalisation gain came from three sources rather than one, but the 9.7x to 64.4x valuation spread between Zenith and First HoldCo means the Banking overweight is a stock selection, not an index exposure.
- Primary issuance will compete with the secondary market. The Dangote Refinery order book opens on 14 Sep 2026 with a base offer of ₦2.15tn, approximately $1.63bn at ₦1,320.18/$, drawing on domestic institutional balance sheets that absorbed ₦1.65tn of July turnover after foreign participation fell to 5.60% from 10.90%.
- The week of 21 September is the key catalyst window. The FTSE Russell frontier reclassification takes effect from the open on 21 Sep 2026, the same day the 307th MPC begins its two-day meeting, so passive inflows and a rate decision on the 17.12% FGN 10-year fall within 48 hours of each other.
- The Oil & Gas thesis remains highly sensitive to Brent. Crude at $96.28/bbl underpins the sector's ▲ +111.86% YTD, and a retreat would remove much of that support given how narrow index leadership is beyond Seplat and Aradel.

Global Markets Commentary

- Crude drove the week. Brent rose ▲ +7.80% WoW to $96.28/bbl as US-Iran hostilities resumed, forcing a global bond selloff that pushed the 30-year Treasury yield to 5.2655% intraweek.
- Equity performance decoupled by region. The S&P 500 held ▲ +0.09% WoW at 7,718.60, cushioned by Thursday's 1.06% Waller-driven rally, while STOXX 600 fell ▼ 0.81%, Nikkei 225 ▼ 2.09% and KOSPI ▼ 1.50%.
- Yen strength compounded Japanese losses. The dollar fell 2.49% to 155.75 yen on Bank of Japan hike bets ahead of the September 17 to 18 meeting, leaving the Nikkei 10.7% below its 52-week high.
- Positioning divergence remains extreme. Shanghai Composite is the sole index negative YTD at ▼ 2.32%, while KOSPI holds ▲ 55.17% YTD yet trades 28.8% below its 9,385.59 high.

FX tables are quoted on the currency-pair convention: a negative figure denotes a fall in USD/NGN, that is, naira appreciation. Narrative commentary states moves on the naira and is signed accordingly.

Frontier Africa Commentary

- Frontier Africa decoupled from global risk-off. NGX ASI led at ▲ +2.36% WoW to 246,992.44 (₦159.56tn cap, ▲ +58.72% YTD), with Kenya's NSE ▲ +2.83% and EGX 30 ▲ +2.11%, against a falling STOXX 600 and Nikkei 225.
- Kenya was the week's best performer at ▲ +2.83%, extending ▲ +7.14% MoM, despite Sh4.55bn of August foreign net selling concentrated in Equity Bank, Safaricom and KCB. Local institutional demand absorbed the outflow at multi-year highs.

Week of: 04 September 2026

- Ghana was the worst at ▼ 1.37% WoW and ▼ 3.70% MoM, as cedi weakness of ▼ 1.70% WoW to 11.35 eroded dollar returns despite ▲ +68.90% YTD. South Africa's JSE fell ▼ 1.22% on global bond pressure.
- Naira strength anchors the Nigeria case. The naira appreciated ₦20.22 to ₦1,320.18/$ on the official market and ▲ +8.73% YTD. The bureau parallel rate was ₦1,410.00 as of 04 Sep 2026, leaving an official-to-parallel spread of ₦89.82, or 6.80%.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX All-Share Index closed at 246,992.44, up 5,693.97 points or ▲ +2.36% WoW, accelerating from the prior week's ▲ +0.81% gain and lifting YTD return to ▲ +58.72% from ▲ +55.06%. Market capitalisation expanded ₦3.73tn to ₦159.56tn. The advance ran counter to the global risk-off tone, with naira appreciation of ▲ +1.51% WoW to ₦1,320.18/$ and anticipation of the Dangote Refinery offering supporting the domestic bid.
- Participation confirmed the move. Value traded rose 70.7% WoW to ₦210.33bn, volume gained 11.3% to 2.12bn shares and deals climbed 28.6% to 223,284, indicating broader and more active participation. Weekly breadth reversed sharply: 66 advancers against 31 decliners across the five sessions produced an advance/decline ratio of 2.13x, versus 0.36x the prior week when decliners outnumbered advancers 58 to 21. Unchanged counters fell to 46 from 64 across the constant 143-security universe.
- The index now sits 2.79% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42 and 95.0% above the 126,689.54 low. Value traded throughout this report refers to NGX equity value traded across the five sessions of 31 Aug to 04 Sep 2026.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- Oil & Gas led all sectors at ▲ +9.10% WoW to 5,657.27, extending YTD gains to ▲ +111.86%, driven by Seplat Energy's 10% Thursday limit-up to ₦13,552.60 on Tony Elumelu's rising stake and Aradel Holdings' 8.83% Tuesday advance to ₦1,539.90. Brent's climb to $96.28/bbl reinforced the bid. Industrial Goods was the sole equity decliner at ▼ 0.35% to 10,342.50, weighed by Beta Glass falling from ₦562.90 to ₦465.00 across the week and Julius Berger's ▼ 9.66% Friday drop.
- Banking followed at ▲ +3.58%, taking QtD gains to ▲ +27.34%, the strongest quarterly move on the board. The sector's liquidity makes it the most likely beneficiary of positioning ahead of Nigeria's FTSE Russell reclassification, confirmed on 27 Aug 2026 and effective from the open on 21 Sep 2026. Insurance gained ▲ +3.85% WoW yet remains ▼ 5.74% YTD, the only negative equity index.
- Rotation favours energy and financials over industrials. Watch whether Banking sustains momentum as reclassification flows materialise.

Market Movers Commentary

- Oando's ▲ +11.78% WoW to ₦37.00 on ₦1.06bn traded marks the week's most liquid gainer outside the mega-caps, tracking Brent's move to $96.28/bbl. NASCON's ▼ 17.23% reversal to ₦161.40 on ₦632.70m value is the standout dislocation after August large-cap strength. CMFC combined ▼ 11.72% with 82.09m shares, the only decliner among the top five by volume, which is consistent with distribution rather than drift. Close prices in the four tables above are as of 03 Sep 2026, not the Friday close.

Market Movers Commentary

- Large caps led. The NGX 30 gained ▲ +2.42% WoW against the ASI's ▲ +2.36%, driven by Seplat Energy's ▲ +10.00% to ₦13,552.60 on 850,147 shares, the watch list's largest move at 63.7x trailing earnings and ▲ +142% YTD.
- Banking valuations remain dispersed. Zenith led the peer group at ▲ +5.37% to ₦127.50 on 9.7x, the cheapest name in the list, while First HoldCo's ▲ +3.41% comes at 64.4x, a wide premium to Zenith and GTCO's 18.7x on the same basis.
- Dangote Cement, BUA Foods and Airtel Africa closed unchanged. Airtel Africa's ▲ +178% YTD rests on 31,469 shares traded for the week, so its market-cap weight is not matched by executable weekly liquidity. Three of this watch list are outside the FTSE Nigerian universe entirely: Airtel Africa (UK nationality), BUA Foods (free float at or below the 5% exclusion) and Seplat. Five constituents are absent from the list: Stanbic IBTC, Presco, Nigerian Breweries, Aradel and UBA. We will realign the watch list from Edition 12.

NGX Large Cap: Derived Market Capitalisation, YTD Performance and Sector

■ Telecoms ■ Industrial ■ Consumer goods ■ Oil and gas ■ Banking

Light = 1 Jan base, dark = YTD gain, hatched = YTD decline. Closes of 4 Sep 2026, share counts scaled from NGX P/E file.

Market Movers Commentary

Airtel Africa held ₦23.68tn, unchanged at ₦6,300.00 for a second consecutive week, and remains the most capitalised stock on the NGX by a ₦6.23tn margin. Dangote Cement retained second at ₦17.45tn, flat at ₦1,034.00 for a fifth consecutive week, while MTN Nigeria recovered to ₦17.17tn on ▲ +4.39% to ₦808.00, reclaiming the ₦0.92tn lost since 14 Aug 2026 and closing to within ₦0.28tn of Dangote Cement. Capitalisations are derived by applying 04 Sep 2026 closes to share counts implied by the NGX P/E file, other than Airtel, MTN, BUA Foods and GTCO, which are the published figures.

- Telecoms (blue): Airtel Africa ₦23.68tn at ₦6,300.00 (▲ +178% YTD), flat on 31,469 shares; MTNN ₦17.17tn at ₦808.00 (▲ +58% YTD) on 19.45m shares and ₦15.70bn traded, the week's largest value line.
- Industrial (green): Dangote Cement ₦17.45tn, unchanged at ₦1,034.00 (▲ +70% YTD), against an Industrial Goods Index down ▼ 0.35% WoW, one of only two sector indices lower on the week.
- Consumer goods (pink): BUA Foods ₦13.69tn at ₦760.60, unchanged and still the only large cap negative YTD at ▼ 4.79%. Nestlé ₦2.37tn at ₦2,995.00 (▲ +5.83%, 72.5x), ahead of the Consumer Goods Index's ▲ +3.52%.
- Oil and gas (amber): Seplat ₦8.13tn at ₦13,552.60 after a ▲ +10.00% limit-up, adding ₦0.74tn of capitalisation on 850,147 shares (▲ +142% YTD, 63.7x).

- Banking (purple): First HoldCo ₦7.07tn at ₦149.95 (▲ +3.41% WoW, ▲ +207% YTD, 64.4x); Zenith ₦5.32tn at ₦127.50 (▲ +5.37%, 9.7x); GTCO ₦4.85tn at ₦132.70 (▲ +2.87%, 18.7x); Access ₦1.60tn at ₦30.05 (▲ +1.86%, 10.7x).

Leadership broadened materially against last week. Nine of the ten names were flat or higher, versus seven flat or lower a week ago, and the ₦3.73tn weekly capitalisation increase came from three sources rather than one: MTN added roughly ₦0.92tn, Seplat ₦0.74tn and the four banks a combined ₦0.66tn. Concentration risk now sits in valuation rather than participation. First HoldCo trades at 64.4x against Zenith at 9.7x on the same NGX earnings basis, a spread that has widened in a period of positioning ahead of the FTSE Russell reclassification. BUA Foods remains the sole outlier, still ₦0.69tn below its 1 January base and unchanged for a third week on 318,171 shares. Airtel Africa's ▲ +178% YTD and ₦23.68tn ranking rest on 31,469 shares traded for the week, so its large market-cap weight is not matched by weekly trading liquidity, which limits its usefulness as an immediately scalable position.

Earnings and Corporate Actions Commentary

Earnings

- PZ Cussons closed FY2026 (year ended 31 May 2026) with revenue ▲ +22% to ₦260.46bn, PBT ▲ +364.08% to ₦77.32bn and PAT ▲ +348.7% to ₦45.17bn. EPS reached ₦10.87 from ₦2.32 and equity swung to positive ₦66.64bn from negative ₦17.34bn. Analyst estimate: excluding the identified non-recurring asset disposal gain and applying the reported 41.6% effective tax rate, adjusted PAT is approximately ₦22.6bn and adjusted EPS approximately ₦5.20, against reported EPS of ₦10.87. Nigeria REIT reported H1 2026 total income ▲ +357.26% to ₦7.97bn and PAT ▲ +328.17% to ₦6.05bn, though operating expenses rose ▲ +481.87% to ₦1.92bn, outpacing income growth. The Initiates delivered H1 revenue ▲ +105.1% to ₦6.95bn on PAT of approximately ₦1.75bn. Red Star Express posted FY2026 (year ended 31 Mar 2026) revenue ▲ +8.47% to ₦23.49bn and PAT ▲ +7.09% to ₦585m.

Dividends

- PZ Cussons proposed a final ₦2.50 per share, its first payout since 2022, totalling ₦9.93bn, with qualification 09 Oct 2026 and payment 30 Oct 2026. Red Star Express declared a final ₦0.45, payable 18 Sep 2026. Nigeria REIT distributes ₦1.72 per unit on 08 Sep 2026 and UPDC REIT paid ₦0.40 per unit on 04 Sep 2026. The Initiates paid ₦0.20 on 31 Aug 2026, taking 2026 distributions to ₦0.50.

Capital actions

- Dangote Petroleum Refinery's IPO is priced at ₦525 per share on a base offer of 4.1bn shares, implying gross proceeds of ₦2.15tn, approximately $1.63bn at ₦1,320.18/$. A reported 15% greenshoe would take the offer to ₦2.48tn, approximately $1.88bn. Management has separately referred to a longer-term ambition of around $5bn, which the approved base offer does not represent. The order book opens on 14 Sep 2026 following a completion board meeting on 07 Sep 2026. NNPC's 7.25% stake sits outside the offer. Management plans to apply proceeds toward expansion from 700,000 bpd tested output toward 1.4m bpd, with a secondary LSE listing planned within three years.

Other

- Dangote Cement holds a London Capital Markets Day on 21 Sep 2026 after shareholder approval of its proposed LSE secondary listing. Seplat confirmed that Tony Elumelu, holder of 20.07% worth approximately $1.28bn, becomes Chairman on 01 Jan 2027; the target of at least $1bn of shareholder returns over 2026 to 2030 is a reiteration of existing policy rather than a new announcement. Champion Breweries confirmed Malolan Sampath as MD/CEO effective 01 Sep 2026. Transcorp Power proposed Maryam Bala Shehu as Independent Non-Executive Director, subject to NERC approval. The CBN circulated an exposure draft requiring financial holding companies to hold regulatory capital 20% above the combined subsidiary minimum, bearing directly on ACCESSCORP, FIRSTHOLDCO, GTCO and FCMB. No consensus comparatives are published for the names above, so no beat or miss is flagged.

Macro Commentary

- The naira appreciated across every major cross. USD/NGN closed at ₦1,320.18, a naira appreciation of ▲ +1.51% WoW and ▲ +8.73% YTD, after touching ₦1,315.67 on 03 Sep 2026, its strongest since May 2024. The naira gained ▲ +2.30% against sterling to ₦1,785.02 and ▲ +2.21% against the euro to ₦1,533.13. The bureau parallel rate held flat at ₦1,410.00, leaving an official-to-parallel spread of ₦89.82, or 6.80%. NFEM turnover reached $14.68bn in August, a five-month high. Percentage moves in this paragraph are stated on the naira; the FX tables are quoted on the currency-pair convention, where a negative figure denotes a fall in USD/NGN and therefore naira appreciation.
- Policy settings were unchanged on every measure. The MPR stands at 26.50%, held at the 306th meeting on 20 to 21 Jul 2026, with CRR at 45% for commercial banks. Headline CPI eased 48bp to 15.43% YoY in July from 15.91%. The FGN 10-year yield was flat at 17.12%. The CBN offered ₦700bn of NTBs on 02 Sep 2026 across 91, 182 and 364-day tenors, the 364-day taking ₦500bn.
- Brent drove the external account. Crude rose ▲ +7.80% WoW to $96.28/bbl on renewed US-Iran hostilities, lifting reserves ▲ +$0.57bn to $54.08bn at 03 Sep 2026, an 18-year high and ▲ +$8.52bn YTD. Bonny Light last printed at $98.16 on 14 Aug 2026; no more recent official print was available at the time of writing. Gold slipped ▼ 0.67% to $4,428.89/oz. Q2 GDP came in at 4.43% YoY, up from 3.89% in Q1 2026.
- Events to watch next week: the Dangote Refinery IPO order book opens on 14 Sep 2026 at ₦525 per share; the NBS August CPI release is expected in mid-September, with no date yet published; and the CBN 307th MPC meets on 21 to 22 Sep 2026, with the FTSE Russell frontier reclassification effective from the open on the first day of that meeting.

SECTION 8 | NIGERIA — MARKET METRICS & VALUATION
Valuation Metrics

Source: NGX Current Equity P/E Ratios files of 04 Sep 2026 and 28 Aug 2026. Methodology note: the ratio NGX publishes as the Main Board Market Total (39.88x on 04 Sep 2026) is the sum, across constituents, of market capitalisation divided by total market capitalisation on all boards, multiplied by that constituent's P/E. On 04 Sep 2026 the implied denominator is approximately ₦163.72tn against a Main Board capitalisation of ₦94.84tn, and only ₦33.15tn of Main Board capitalisation carries a published P/E. The published figure is therefore a coverage-limited weighted contribution, not a cap-weighted market P/E, and is retained here only for continuity with prior issues. Equinox recomputes a cap-weighted trailing P/E over the covered Main Board universe as total covered capitalisation divided by total covered earnings. Sector figures are equal-weighted trailing P/E across constituents reporting usable data, excluding any constituent above 100x. Banking covers 9 of 11 bank and bank-holdco lines across the Main, Premium and Non-Interest boards, excluding Wema at 746.6x and Jaiz at 299.3x. Consumer Goods covers 6 of 13 Main Board lines. Oil & Gas covers 5 of 6, excluding TotalEnergies at 105.8x. Both weeks are recomputed on this basis and are not comparable with the 14 Aug 2026 edition carried in prior issues.

FPI as % of Total Turnover	5.60%	10.90%	↓

Valuation Commentary

- The index gain was accompanied by modest multiple expansion. On a cap-weighted basis across the covered Main Board universe, the trailing P/E rose to 30.00x from 29.17x, an increase of 2.8% against an index gain of ▲ +2.36% WoW, so the week's advance is better described as re-rating than as earnings growth. Excluding constituents above 100x, the same measure moved to 19.34x from 18.50x. The NGX-published Main Board ratio was effectively flat at 39.88x, but that figure is a coverage-limited weighted contribution rather than a P/E, and its stability should not be read as evidence of stable multiples. The implied earnings yield on the recomputed 30.00x is 3.33%, some 13.79pp below the FGN 10-year at 17.12%. The two are not directly comparable, since the earnings yield includes retained earnings and growth optionality while the bond yield is contractual and nominal, but the differential illustrates the hurdle equities face against local fixed income.

- Banking widened to 22.51x on the reclassification bid, with Zenith at 9.67x from 9.10x and GTCO at 18.69x from 18.17x. First HoldCo's 64.41x, up from 62.28x, alone adds 4.7x to the sector average; excluding it, the Banking mean is 17.27x. Consumer Goods rose most in absolute terms to 55.96x, driven by Nigerian Breweries re-rating to 51.48x from 43.33x on Friday's ▲ +9.93% close. NASCON moved the other way, falling to 122.90x from 146.14x.
- Oil and Gas at 40.60x is distorted by Japaul at 0.23x; ex-Japaul the average is 50.69x against 48.71x prior, with Seplat at 63.72x from 57.92x.
- Foreign participation collapsed in July. Buying fell to ₦41.59bn against ₦91.03bn of selling, a net outflow of ₦49.44bn, and foreign share of turnover dropped to 5.60% from 10.90% in June as total transactions rose 38.17% to ₦2.37tn. Domestic institutions absorbed the gap, up 66.18% MoM to ₦1.65tn. The FTSE reclassification is a September catalyst against a July flow base that is deteriorating, not stabilising.

SECTION 9 | INVESTMENT THEME
Theme — Banking Outperformance Despite Elevated Fixed-Income Yields

OBSERVATION	The 5 August sector ranking has been validated at the top and the bottom, and invalidated in the middle. Banking has extended from +65.9% YTD against an ASI at +57.3% on 5 August, to +73.90% against +58.72% at 4 September, widening the relative gap from 8.6pp to 15.18pp and posting +27.34% QtD, the strongest quarterly move on the board. Industrial Goods, the flagged underweight, has delivered just +1.77% QtD and fell -0.35% this week, one of only two declining indices. The Consumer Goods overweight has not worked at index level: -9.58% QtD, the weakest reading on the scoreboard, despite +3.52% this week.
DRIVER	FTSE Russell's 27 Aug 2026 confirmation that Nigeria moves from Unclassified to Frontier Market status, effective from the open on 21 Sep 2026, has shifted attention from a domestic earnings story to an anticipated-flows story, and the bid has landed where liquidity already sat. Banking is the most plausible beneficiary because the sector holds the most tradeable float: Access Holdings alone traded 314.53m shares this week and the largest banks accounted for much of the value turnover as market-wide equity value traded rose 70.7% to ₦210.33bn. Oil & Gas outran everything at +9.10% WoW on +111.86% YTD, but that was driven by Seplat's +10.00% limit-up rather than a broad sector move, which is the single-name concentration the original note flagged as the reason to be selective.
IMPLICATION	The dispersion inside the sectors now matters more than the sector call itself. First HoldCo trades at 64.4x against Zenith at 9.7x, GTCO at 18.7x and Access at 10.7x on the same NGX earnings basis, so a passive Banking overweight is really a bet on which multiple the reclassification bid chases, not on the sector. The same holds in Consumer Goods, where Nigerian Breweries rose +9.93% on 4 September while NASCON fell -17.23% on the week and BUA Foods remains the only large cap negative YTD at -4.79%. Positioning should stay concentrated in five to six names, weighted toward the cheap end of Banking and toward Oil and Gas entry points rather than the index.
RISK	The reclassification-driven bid is event-driven rather than structural. If foreign inflows arrive smaller than positioned for after the 21 Sep 2026 effective date, the banks that re-rated on anticipation rather than earnings are the most exposed, and First HoldCo at 64.4x has the most multiple to surrender. Kenya provides a useful cautionary comparison: foreign investors took Sh4.55bn out of the NSE in August, concentrated in the same large-cap financials that had led that market's rally, with Equity Bank alone at Sh918m. Two other conditions would challenge the view. A retreat in Brent from $96.28 would remove much of the Oil & Gas support given how narrow the leadership is, and the 21 to 22 Sep MPC, whose first day coincides with the effective date, could reprice the FGN 10-year from 17.12% and compress the equity-versus-fixed-income argument underpinning the allocation. Insurance is the one call the last five sessions have gone against: the index rose +3.85% this week, the second strongest on the board, although it remains -5.74% YTD.

SECTION 10 | SPECIAL FEATURE: FTSE FRONTIER RE-ENTRY
Theme — FTSE Frontier Re-entry: Nigeria Enters at a Third of Its Headline Size

Equinox estimates. FTSE has not published final constituent weights at the time of writing.

OBSERVATION

Nigeria returns to the FTSE Frontier Index Series at market open on 21 September 2026, in the same review that removes Vietnam. The ten Nigerian large caps identified in the indicative review carry roughly ₦70.5tn of headline capitalisation, about $52.6bn. On our estimates only about $19.7bn of that is index eligible once free float is applied, an aggregate investability ratio near 37.5%.

That ratio is the whole argument. Nigeria enters as an investable market roughly one third the size of the one the NGX All Share Index describes, and the ranking of names inside it is not the ranking of names by market capitalisation.

DRIVER

FTSE weights on investable rather than headline capitalisation. Free float of 5% or below excludes a security outright, and constituents are further adjusted for foreign ownership limits and a minimum foreign headroom test. Nigeria's largest counters are its most closely held: Dangote Cement and MTN Nigeria together account for roughly half the large cap headline capitalisation on floats we estimate at 14% and 22%. Stanbic IBTC, Nestlé Nigeria, Nigerian Breweries and Presco are each majority owned by a foreign parent.

The banks are the mirror image. Zenith, GTCO, Access and UBA combine large capitalisation with high free float and the deepest liquidity on the exchange, so they convert into index weight at close to full value. Airtel Africa, Seplat, BUA Foods and BUA Cement do not appear in the Nigerian universe at all. Airtel Africa is London primary listed and incorporated in England and Wales, and already carries UK nationality within the FTSE Global Equity Index Series, so its NGX line does not contribute to Nigeria. On our reading BUA Foods sits at or below the 5% free float exclusion. Between them these names carry a substantial share of NGX capitalisation and no index weight.

Exhibit 1 | Headline capitalisation does not survive the float screen

Company	Band	Full MCap (₦tn)	Float %	Net MCap (₦tn)	Net MCap ($m)	Est. index wgt

TOTAL (12 names)		70.48	37.5%	26.44	19,724	13.75%

Ranked by estimated index weight, not by capitalisation. Full capitalisations at 3 Sep 2026 and converted at ₦1,340.40/$. Free float percentages are Equinox estimates. 19 further mid and small cap constituents are not modelled and would add modestly to the total.

Kenya	9,208	5.07%	6.42%	+1.35pp
Vietnam	57,734	31.81%	0.00%	exits

Base weights from the FTSE Frontier Index Series factsheet, data as at 31 August 2026. Vietnam's frontier deletion is modelled as a single tranche; the four tranche phasing applies to its emerging market inclusion, not to the frontier denominator. Every surviving market receives a mechanical uplift from the deletion before Nigeria's entry dilutes it.

IMPLICATION

On our estimates Nigeria enters as the second largest market in the index behind Morocco, ahead of Pakistan and Oman, and at roughly twice Kenya's post review weight. That is a larger entry than the 5% to 10% range most commentary has assumed.

Inside Nigeria the ordering inverts. Zenith at an estimated 2.40% of the index, GTCO at 2.22% and First HoldCo at 2.06% are each a larger index weight than Dangote Cement at 1.27%, despite Dangcem carrying more than three times Zenith's headline capitalisation. Positioning built from a market capitalisation ranking points at the wrong names.

Absorption capacity matters more than weight. Exhibit 3 expresses the implied passive allocation as days of normal trading. Dangote Cement requires an order of magnitude more absorption than First HoldCo despite a smaller allocation, because the same restricted float that suppresses its index weight also suppresses its turnover. The names with the largest liquidity constraint are not the names with the largest weight.

Exhibit 3 | Implied passive allocation and days of average daily value traded

Company	Est. index wgt	Implied flow ($m)	Implied flow (₦bn)	Daily value (₦bn)	Days of ADV
Dangote Cement	1.27%	7.6	10.2	0.20	51.1
MTN Nigeria	1.93%	11.6	15.5	1.10	14.0
Nestlé Nigeria	0.41%	2.5	3.3	0.27	12.3
GTCO	2.22%	13.3	17.8	1.77	10.1
Access Holdings	0.73%	4.4	5.9	0.63	9.4
Zenith Bank	2.40%	14.4	19.3	2.62	7.4
United Bank for Africa	0.68%	4.1	5.5	1.14	4.8
First HoldCo	2.06%	12.3	16.5	4.52	3.7
Aradel Holdings	0.82%	4.9	6.6	2.00	3.3

Illustrative, on $1bn of assets tracking the FTSE Frontier Index Series and a 60% true passive share. Flows scale linearly: at $500m halve every figure, at $2bn double it. Daily value traded is derived from the week ended 28 August 2026, which had four sessions following the Eid el Maulud closure, so it understates a normal week. Stanbic IBTC, Presco and Nigerian Breweries are omitted for want of a reliable turnover base. [DATA PENDING]

RISK

The estimate breaks in four places. Free float is the largest single sensitivity: our aggregate 37.5% investability ratio sits close to Morocco at roughly 35% to 40% and Kenya at roughly 29%, but a five point error on Dangote Cement or MTN moves Nigeria's country weight by more than a percentage point.

Second, capitalisations here are at 3 September while rule 7.2.1 sets the review cut off at the last business day of June, so FTSE's base differs from ours. Third, assets tracking the FTSE Frontier Index Series are small in absolute terms and are not publicly disclosed, so the flow column is a sensitivity rather than a forecast. Fourth, if money benchmarked to the index was held partly for Vietnam exposure, the deletion may shrink the tracked pool rather than redistribute it, in which case the allocation Nigeria draws is smaller than modelled.

The thesis also cuts against itself on timing. Nigeria's re-entry has been anticipated since the reclassification decision, the constituent universe has been public since early September, and the ASI is ▲55.06% YTD with banking ▲22.94% QtD. A substantial part of the mechanical flow may already be in the price, in which case 21 September delivers execution without incremental return. The cleanest test remains the one set out in Section 10: foreign participation failing to exceed the 5.60% July base would indicate the move was domestically positioned rather than internationally funded.

Basis of preparation and estimates

This section is Equinox Research's own estimate and is not a published FTSE Russell weighting. FTSE had not released final constituent weights at the time of writing. The Nigerian constituent universe is taken from the September 2026 indicative review and remains subject to change until the review is implemented after the close on 18 September 2026. Free float percentages are Equinox estimates derived from public shareholding disclosures and have not been reconciled to FTSE's investability weights, which additionally reflect foreign ownership limits and a minimum foreign headroom test we have not modelled. Index base data is taken from the FTSE Frontier Index Series factsheet as at 31 August 2026 and the Ground Rules v7.0 of August 2026. Figures should be treated as directional. We will republish against FTSE's confirmed weights once available.

Methodology note: net market capitalisation is calculated as full market capitalisation multiplied by estimated free float. Country weight is Nigeria's aggregate net market capitalisation divided by the frontier index net market capitalisation excluding Vietnam and including Nigeria. Days of ADV is the implied allocation divided by average daily value traded.

SECTION 11 | OUTLOOK — SECTORAL VIEWS & EVENTS TO WATCH
Sectoral Outlook — Coming Week

Sector	View	Conviction	Rationale
Banking	OW	H	+73.90% YTD and +27.34% QtD on the deepest float on the exchange, positioning it to absorb FTSE Russell frontier inflows from 21 Sep, though the 9.7x to 64.4x spread across Zenith and First HoldCo means the call is a stock call, not an index call. Estimated FTSE weights now support this: Zenith 2.40%, GTCO 2.22% and First HoldCo 2.06% of the index, each above Dangote Cement at 1.27%.
Consumer Goods	N	M	+3.52% WoW masks -9.58% QtD and +4.50% YTD, the weakest quarterly reading on the board, with Nigerian Breweries at +9.93% and NASCON at -17.23% in the same week arguing for selection over exposure.
Oil & Gas	OW	M	+9.10% WoW and +111.86% YTD are supported by Brent at $96.28/bbl and the 14 Sep Dangote Refinery order book, but the move is Seplat and Aradel rather than the sector, so entry level carries more weight than direction. Note the FTSE split within the pair: Aradel is a large cap constituent, Seplat is not.
Industrial Goods	UW	M	-0.35% WoW and +1.77% QtD against +82.20% YTD suggest the sector's recent momentum has stalled, with Beta Glass falling from ₦562.90 to ₦465.00 across the week and Dangote Cement unchanged at ₦1,034.00 for a fifth week.
Insurance	N	L	+3.85% WoW and +2.94% MoM are the first sustained signal after -5.74% YTD, the only negative equity index, but the sector's ₦1.02tn capitalisation and limited liquidity may constrain institutional scalability.
Telco (MTN/Airtel)	N	M	Airtel Africa at ₦23.68tn and +178% YTD is unchanged on 31,469 weekly shares, so its large market-cap weight is not matched by weekly trading liquidity and is of limited use as an immediately scalable position; MTN's +4.39% to ₦808.00 on ₦15.70bn of value is the more readily expressible exposure and already carries the largest single value line on the exchange. The FTSE event splits the pair outright: MTN enters at an estimated 1.93% of the index while Airtel Africa, London primary listed and already UK-classified within GEIS, carries no Nigerian index weight at all.

▲ BULLISH FACTORS

- External buffers are at an 18-year high. Reserves reached $54.08bn on 03 Sep 2026, +$8.52bn YTD and $3.04bn above the CBN's $51.04bn full-year projection, with USD/NGN at ₦1,320.18 after touching ₦1,315.67, the strongest since May 2024.

▼ BEARISH RISKS

- The reclassification-driven bid is event-driven rather than structural. Kenya's NSE saw Sh4.55bn of foreign net selling in August concentrated in the same large-cap financials that led its rally, with Equity Bank alone at Sh918m; First HoldCo at

- Participation is confirming price. Value traded rose 70.7% WoW to ₦210.33bn and deals climbed 28.6% to 223,284, with weekly breadth reversing to a 2.13x advance/decline ratio from 0.36x, indicating broader and more active participation rather than a narrow bid.
- Growth is accelerating and valuations remain contained. Q2 GDP printed 4.43% YoY against 3.89% in Q1 2026, while the recomputed cap-weighted Main Board P/E of 30.00x, or 19.34x excluding constituents above 100x, leaves the market some way below the multiples implied by the NGX-published weighted ratio. Nigeria's estimated 13.8% entry weight would make it the second largest market in the frontier index, ahead of Pakistan and Oman and at roughly twice Kenya's post-review weight, a materially larger entry than the 5% to 10% most commentary has assumed.

64.4x has the most multiple to surrender if 21 Sep inflows disappoint.

- Local fixed income remains a high hurdle. The FGN 10-year at 17.12% sits 13.79pp above the market's recomputed 3.33% implied earnings yield, and the 21 to 22 Sep MPC opens on the FTSE effective date with the MPR at 26.50% and July CPI at 15.43%.
- Concentration is unresolved rather than removed. Only ₦33.15tn of ₦94.84tn of Main Board capitalisation carries a published P/E, Airtel's ₦23.68tn ranking rests on 31,469 weekly shares, and Friday's 416.66% volume increase against a 0.96% rise in deal count is consistent with larger average transaction sizes and potentially block activity. And the ASI is a poor proxy for the FTSE trade: Airtel at ₦23.68tn, BUA Foods at ₦13.69tn and Seplat carry roughly 29% of NGX capitalisation between them and, on our analysis, no index weight, so a bullish flow story can coexist with an index that goes nowhere.

Events to Watch — Next Week

Date	Event Type	Details & Why It Matters
14 Sep 2026	Dangote Refinery IPO order book opens: 4.1bn shares at ₦525, a base offer of ₦2.15tn (approximately $1.63bn), with a reported 15% greenshoe taking it to ₦2.48tn	Africa's largest listing draws primary demand at a moment when secondary liquidity is already stretched; watch for crowding-out in Oil & Gas and in the banks acting as issuing houses. The earlier $5bn figure is a management ambition, not the approved offer.
21 Sep 2026	FTSE Russell frontier reclassification effective from the open; first day of the CBN 307th MPC meeting	The two largest catalysts of the quarter fall in the same 48 hours. Passive inflows meet a rate decision that could reprice the 17.12% FGN 10-year, making this an important test of the Banking overweight. Execution is on 18 Sep: rule 7.2.1 implements review changes after the close on the third Friday, effective the following Monday, so tracker trading concentrates into Friday 18 Sep rather than Monday's open.
Mid-Sep 2026	NBS releases August CPI, following July at 15.43% YoY	A further deceleration would strengthen the case for a hold or a dovish tilt at the MPC and would support the naira-led equity bid; a reacceleration would revive hike risk into the reclassification date. No release date has been published as at the report date.
21 to 22 Sep 2026	CBN MPC meeting	The rate decision is announced on the second day, 22 Sep 2026. Any signal of easing from 26.50% would compress OMO rates and slow the fixed-income rotation currently drawing liquidity from equities.
