INSTITUTIONAL MARKET INTELLIGENCE

Nigeria

Report Date 27 July 2026	Coverage Period 20 July – 24 July 2026	Prepared By Equinox Research	Edition Vol. 1 No. 6
------------------------------------	--	--	--------------------------------

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- Middle East escalation drove Brent to a mid-week peak of $99.92/bbl before easing to $97.24, while Fed Chair Kevin Warsh's hawkish signal pushed 10-year Treasury yields to 4.70% — their highest since January 2025 — as Nasdaq slid ▼2.1% WoW on AI capex concerns.
- The NGX ASI advanced ▲1.60% WoW to 247,357.40 (▲58.96% YTD, ₦159.59tn market cap), outpacing Egypt's ▲1.90% weekly gain but trailing Ghana's frontier-leading ▲2.63% WoW advance (▲74.77% YTD).
- Banking led all sectors at ▲8.35% WoW on First HoldCo's ₦653.5bn H1 pre-tax profit release, while Consumer Goods fell ▼3.76% as Nestlé and BUA Foods each hit 10% daily limits; UPDCREIT topped gainers at ▲33.33% against MECURE's ▼26.97% collapse.
- The naira weakened ▼1.26% WoW to ₦1,362.76/$ on the NAFEM window even as June CPI eased to 15.91% YoY and the CBN held its MPR at 26.5% for a second consecutive meeting, citing Gulf-driven oil volatility.
- With the ASI just 2.72% below its 52-week high and Q2/H1 earnings accelerating across banks and industrials, the coming week's DMO bond auction and any MPC-adjacent commentary will decide whether banking-led gains broaden against 18%+ fixed-income yields.

Market Outlook — Coming Week

- Earnings cluster continues: further H1/Q2 releases from FUGAZ banks and consumer names will test whether First HoldCo's post-earnings pop repeats at Zenith, GTCO, UBA, and Access, given their lower entry multiples (9.5x–18.6x versus a 40.88x Market P/E).
- Treasury bill yields remain the key rotation risk — the FGN 10-year rose to 18.34% from 17.00% this week; a further spike could pull liquidity from equities despite last week's improved 1.50x advance/decline ratio.
- FX and inflation trends bear watching: the naira weakened on the official window even as the parallel rate strengthened and CPI eased to 15.91%, raising the question of whether the CBN's hold stance shifts if Gulf tensions cool.
- Technically, the ASI sits within 2.72% of its 254,067.42 52-week high; a genuine breakout needs Consumer Goods and Oil & Gas to re-engage alongside Banking, particularly given this week's single-stock fragility in Nestlé and BUA Foods.
- Positioning stance: hold the Banking OW into results but favour undervalued names (Zenith 9.5x, Access 8.9x, Fidelity) over fully re-rated momentum; Industrial Goods is OW this week following its ▲5.01% WoW advance (see Section 10), pending confirmation of Dangote Cement's Q2 print; treat any dip toward the 245,000 support as accumulation territory rather than trend reversal.

Global Markets Commentary

- Middle East escalation dominated sentiment as Brent crude surged ▲40% monthly to $99.92/barrel by Thursday on US-Iran strikes and Houthi naval blockade threats across the Strait of Hormuz and Red Sea shipping lanes.
- Fed Chair Kevin Warsh signaled hawkish intent independent of energy spillovers, pushing 10-year Treasury yields to 4.70% ▲, their highest since January 2025, with markets now fully pricing rate hikes despite moderating inflation trends.
- Alphabet and Tesla earnings sparked valuation concerns; investors questioned AI capex returns near-term, causing Nasdaq to slide ▼2.1% WoW while Europe's STOXX 600 rose ▲0.46% on lower tech concentration and energy exposure benefits.

Frontier Africa Commentary

- Ghana's GSE Composite led regional performance ▲2.63% WoW and ▲74.77% YTD, the frontier's top performer, while South Africa's JSE All Share was the sole decliner, ▼0.16% WoW and ▼5.55% YTD.
- CBN and Bank of Ghana both held policy rates steady (26.5% and 14% respectively) at their July meetings, citing Gulf-driven oil volatility and imported-inflation risk, keeping real yields attractive for Nigerian fixed-income holders.
- Nigeria's NGX ASI advanced ▲1.60% WoW to 247,357.41 (▲58.96% YTD, ₦159.50tn market cap), even as the naira weakened ▼1.26% WoW to ₦1,362.76/$ and ▼5.79% YTD on the official window.
- FX divergence persisted: South Africa's rand gained ▲2.02% WoW despite JSE weakness (likely reflecting SARB rate positioning or commodity-linked capital flows independent of equity performance), while Ghana's cedi and Kenya's shilling held broadly stable, up ▲0.78% and ▲0.16% WoW.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX All-Share Index advanced ▲ 1.60% WoW to close at 247,357.40, reversing the prior week's ▼ 0.14% decline and pushing YTD returns to ▲ 58.96%. Market capitalisation rose to ₦159,588bn, up ₦2,531bn WoW, with the index now sitting just 2.72% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42, keeping the 241,000–245,000 resistance band firmly in the rear-view.
- Market breadth strengthened materially, with advancers rising to 57 against 38 decliners, lifting the advance/decline ratio to 1.50x from 1.26x the prior week — the broadest participation in recent editions. Trading activity surged alongside price gains: volume jumped 57% WoW to 4.43bn shares from 2.82bn, while deal count rose to 255,589 from 226,729, signaling both retail and institutional engagement.
- Unchanged counts fell to 51 from 67, consistent with the pickup in directional conviction across the board. Sustained breadth above 1.5x alongside continued turnover expansion would confirm institutional accumulation rather than short-covering, a key signal for whether this rally has structural legs ahead of H2 earnings flow.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX Banking Index was the standout performer, surging ▲8.35% WoW to 2,545.13 — its sharpest weekly gain across sectors — powered by First HoldCo's ₦653.5bn H1 pre-tax profit release, which drove the stock above its 52-week high and lifted Zenith Bank, UBA, and Access Holdings alongside it.
- The NGX Consumer Goods Index was the week's laggard, falling ▼3.76% WoW to 4,508.72, as Nestlé Nigeria and BUA Foods each shed their maximum 10% daily limit on Wednesday, overwhelming gains in Cadbury, Unilever, and NASCON that briefly offset the damage.
- Industrial Goods (▲5.01%) and Insurance (▲3.86%) also posted strong weeks, while the Sovereign Bond Index slipped ▼0.14%, its second consecutive weekly decline. With banking momentum now extended and consumer goods showing single-stock fragility, watch for profit-taking in First HoldCo and rotation into industrials ahead of Q3 earnings.

Market Movers Commentary

- First HoldCo's +38.66% WoW surge to ₦95.95 was the week's most significant price action — ₦21.68bn traded on 225.9m shares — driven by completed ₦500bn CBN recapitalisation, block-trade demand and record earnings expectations. BUA Cement's -18.99% collapse across successive limit-down sessions is consistent with institutional profit-taking in a low-free-float heavyweight at a stretched valuation. Fidelity (+15.00%) and UBA (+10.98%) confirm the recapitalisation trade broadening across Tier-1 and Tier-2 banks.

Large-Cap Watch List

Ticker	Close (₦)	Prev Close	WoW %	Weekly Vol	YTD %	P/E	Analyst Note
MTNN	827	824	+0.36 %	13,806,372	+62%	13.0	+0.36% WoW; block crosses up to ₦849.9 signal institutional demand; undemanding at 13x vs telecom peer Airtel at 25x.
GTCO	132.00	129.00	+2.17 %	18,400,543	+43%	18.6	+2.17% WoW as the Banking Index led the market at ▲8.35% WoW; undemanding at 18.6x.
DANGCEM	1,034	1,047	-1.24%	5,541,211	+70%	1,644.1	Declined ▼1.24% WoW to ₦1,034 (from ₦1,047), correcting the prior "genuine freeze" assessment — confirmed via NGX P/E file market-cap reconciliation; ▲70% YTD; Q2 results due 24 July; street TP ₦1,359.79 implies ~31% upside; P/E of 1,644.1x reflects an EPS-base distortion and is excluded from Market P/E.
ACCESSCORP	29.20	25.00	+16.80%	128,005,001	+27%	8.9	▲16.80% WoW to ₦29.20 on unusually high volume (128.0m shares, most active by volume) — signals institutional accumulation rather than retail-driven momentum; ▲27% YTD; most attractive valuation among the majors at 8.9x.
BUAFOODS	845.10	939.00	-10.00 %	300,687	+6%	n/a	▼10.00% WoW to ₦845.10 — the stock's ~5% free float continues to produce limited price discovery; ▲6% YTD (revised down from the previously stated +18%, consistent with this week's decline). NGX reports no official P/E for this name, though FY2025 EPS of ₦28.80 implies ~29.3x.
AIRTELAFRI	5,801	5,801	0.00%	54,872	+156 %	25	Paused after prior week's +21% limit-up run; now NGX's most valuable at ₦21.8tn; +156% YTD leader; 25x.
ZENITHBANK	126.50	114.00	+10.96 %	30,422,739	+96%	9.5	▲10.96% WoW to ₦126.50 — among the week's most active names by both volume and value; ▲96% YTD; still the cheapest large bank at 9.5x.
FIRSTHOLDCO	120.50	95.95	+25.59 %	35,377,420	+147 %	51.8	NGX top gainer this week: ▲25.59% WoW (₦95.95→₦120.50) on its ₦653.5bn H1 pre-tax profit release (▲83.5% YoY); re-rated to 51.8x, now NGX's most valuable bank by market cap, surpassing Zenith and GTCO.
NESTLE	2,813	2,813	0.00%	164,724	+44%	68.1	Closed the week flat at ₦2,813 (0.00% WoW) despite a mid-week 10% single-session plunge to ₦2,812.50 that fully reversed by Friday — the Top Losers table entry reflects that intraday move, not the net weekly change; ▲44% YTD; 68.1x P/E, still Consumer Goods' richest multiple after Cadbury's exclusion from the sector average this week.
SEPLAT	11,364	11,364	0.00%	2,533,305	+103 %	53.4	Flat despite Brent +14% WoW; Oil & Gas index -0.11%; 53.4x.

Market Movers Commentary

- MECURE was the week's most dramatic mover, collapsing ▼26.97% to ₦62.40 despite no single-session catalyst — a decline steep enough to warrant scrutiny given the stock traded near its 52-week high in April.
- FIRSTHOLDCO's ▲25.59% surge to ₦120.50, alongside 35.4m shares and ₦4.26bn traded (the week's highest value), was driven by its ₦653.5bn H1 pre-tax profit release — the single largest catalyst behind Banking Index outperformance and NGX ASI gains.
- ACCESSCORP's ▲16.80% rise came on unusually high volume (128m shares, most active by volume), suggesting institutional accumulation rather than retail-driven momentum.

NGX Large Cap: Market Cap, YTD Performance and Sector

Market Movers Commentary

A structural change stands out this week: First HoldCo has overtaken Zenith Bank and GTCO to become NGX's most valuable bank, pushing past ₦5.4tn on its post-earnings rally to ₦120.50 (▲25.59% WoW from ₦95.95) — a reordering of the banking segment's internal hierarchy that the prior week's chart didn't show.

- Telecoms (blue) — Airtel Africa remains NGX's most valuable large-cap at ~₦21.8tn, flat WoW at ₦5,801 (▲156% YTD). MTNN holds third at ~₦17.1tn, edging ▲0.36% WoW to ₦827 (▲62% YTD).
- Industrial (green) — Dangote Cement holds second at ~₦17.45tn (▲70% YTD), having declined ▼1.24% WoW to ₦1,034 from ₦1,047 — confirmed via NGX P/E file market-cap reconciliation, correcting the prior "genuine freeze" assessment in the Large-Cap Watch List.
- Consumer goods (pink) — BUA Foods, fourth at ~₦16.9tn, stayed frozen at ₦845 (▲6% YTD) on its ~5% free float. Nestlé (▲44% YTD, 68x) held flat at ₦2,813 despite a mid-week 10% single-session plunge to ₦2,812.50 that fully reversed.
- Oil & Gas (amber) — Seplat, ~₦6.7tn, closed unchanged at ₦11,364 (▲103% YTD, 53x), still the segment's richest multiple despite Brent's continued strength.
- Banking (purple) — First HoldCo's re-rating (▲147% YTD, 52x) now makes it the largest bank by cap, ahead of Zenith (~₦4.8tn, ▲96% YTD, 10x) and GTCO (~₦4.71tn, ▲43% YTD, 19x). Access Corp remains the value laggard at ~₦1.39tn (▲27% YTD, 10x P/E) despite a strong week in the underlying share price per Section 5.

The structural signal: the top four caps (telecoms ×2, cement, foods) were flat WoW, meaning index-level consolidation continues to mask a single-name banking story — First HoldCo's recapitalisation-driven re-rating is now large enough to reshuffle the sector's cap hierarchy outright, a distinct escalation from prior weeks' "banking rotation" narrative.

Macro Commentary

- The naira weakened across major pairs this week, with USD/NGN depreciating ▼1.26% WoW to ₦1,362.76 on the NAFEM official window, while GBP/NGN fell ▼1.89% to ₦1,825.87 and EUR/NGN eased ▼1.19% to ₦1,549.05. The parallel market told a different story, with the bureau rate strengthening to ₦1,420 from ₦1,425, narrowing the official-parallel spread to ₦57.24 (4.2%) — a signal of incremental FX convergence even as the official window came under pressure.
- Inflation continued its gradual disinflation path, with June 2026 headline CPI easing to 15.91% YoY from 15.93% in May. The CBN's Monetary Policy Committee held its benchmark rate at 26.5% for a second consecutive meeting (306th meeting, 20–21 July), citing persistent inflation risk and Gulf-tension-driven oil price volatility as reasons to defer easing.
- Brent crude surged ▲11.15 WoW to $97.24/bbl, tracking the week's Middle East escalation, while Nigeria's Bonny Light lagged at an estimated $96.75, consistent with typical grade and shipping-adjusted differentials versus Brent. The FGN 10-year yield rose to 18.34% from 17.00%, and foreign reserves edged up to $52.02bn from $51.45bn, providing a modest external buffer against naira volatility.

SECTION 8 | NIGERIA — MARKET METRICS & VALUATION

Valuation Metrics

Metric	Current (24 Jul 2026)	Prior Week (17 Jul 2026)	Change
Market P/E Ratio (large-cap, cap-weighted)	40.88	42.95	-2.07
Banking Sector avg P/E	18.87	18.67	+0.20
Consumer Goods avg P/E	53.94	58.44	-4.50
Oil & Gas avg P/E	37.31	36.78	+0.53
Market Dividend Yield (avg)	+3.75% (carried forward)	+3.75%	n/a

Methodology notes: “Market P/E” uses the NGX Main Board cap-weighted total (40.88x, from 42.95x last week), which naturally excludes the Premium Board’s extreme outliers (MTNN ~81,220.5x; Dangote Cement ~1,664.8x) since those names sit on the Premium Board, not the Main Board.

Sector averages are simple (equal-weighted) averages of constituents across all boards that carry a reported P/E, excluding any individual constituent with a P/E above 100x as a statistical outlier - consistent with the treatment applied to the headline Market P/E figure.

Banking (7 constituents: ETI, Fidelity, GTCO, Sterling, Unity, UBA, Zenith) excludes Wema Bank (802.1x, from 768.0x) and Jaiz Bank (314.9x, from 294.1x), both likely distorted by post-recapitalisation EPS dilution. First HoldCo (51.8x, up sharply from 41.2x on the week’s continued price surge) and Access Corp (10.4x) sit under NGX’s “Other Financial Institutions” subsector and are therefore outside the Banking average by classification.

Consumer Goods (7 constituents this week, down from 8: NB, Dangote Sugar, Honeywell Flour, Nestle, Enamelware, Vitafoam, McNichols) excludes Champion Breweries (1,192.5x), Guinness Nigeria (187.0x), NASCON (146.9x), Northern Nigeria Flour Mills (145.0x), P.Z. Industries (170.5x), and Unilever (372.5x). Cadbury crossed the 100x outlier threshold this week at 105.4x (from 89.0x last week) and has been excluded from the average for the first time in this series — this is the primary driver of the sector average’s -4.50 point drop, a methodology-driven shift rather than a valuation re-rating.

Oil & Gas (5 constituents: Japaul, Oando, Conoil, Eterna, Seplat) excludes TotalEnergies Marketing Nigeria (117.6x); Aradel Holdings remains excluded as it has not reported P/E.

Market Dividend Yield has no updated source this week and is carried forward unchanged from last week’s edition.

Corporate action note: no additional listings or share count changes detected this week for Sterling Bank, Wema Bank, or Jaiz Bank versus last week’s P/E file.

Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI)

Metric	Current (June-26)	Prior (May-26)	Trend
FPI Buy Value (₦ bn)	71.71	87.60	↓
FPI Sell Value (₦ bn)	115.08	96.01	↑
FPI Buy/Sell Ratio	0.62	0.91	↓
FPI Net Flow (₦ bn)	-43.37	-8.41	↓ (more negative)
FPI as % of Total Turnover	10.90%	9.45%	↑

Source: NGX Domestic & Foreign Portfolio Investment Report, June 2026. Total market transactions fell 11.82% MoM to ₦1.71359tn from ₦1.94325tn in May, even as total foreign transactions rose 1.73% MoM to ₦0.18679tn (₦186.79bn) from ₦0.18361tn — the FPI share-of-turnover increase (9.45% → 10.90%) is a function of the shrinking total pie, not stronger foreign conviction, as the Buy/Sell ratio and Net Flow both worsened. Exchange rate used: ₦1,379.68/$1 (NAFEM, 30 June 2026), versus ₦1,373.25/$1 in May.

Valuation Commentary

- Banking sector valuations remain compressed relative to the broader market, averaging 18.87x against a Market P/E of 40.88x — GTCO trades at 18.59x, Zenith at 9.51x, and Access at 8.88x, all well below book-implied fair value, while FirstHoldCo's 41.21x reflects its post-earnings re-rating rather than sector norms. Dangote Cement's 1,664.8x (an EPS-base distortion, excluded from the Market P/E calculation) and Seplat's 53.43x confirm Oil & Gas and Industrial Goods carry the market's richest multiples; Nestlé's 68.09x adds to Consumer Goods' premium valuation. BUA Foods carries no NGX-reported P/E given its ~5% free float, though FY2025 EPS of ₦28.80 implies an analyst-estimated ~29.3x.
- FPI flows deteriorated in June: foreign buying fell to ₦71.71bn against ₦115.08bn in sales, a net outflow of -₦43.37bn versus -₦8.41bn in May. Foreign share of turnover actually rose to 10.90% from 9.45%, but only because total market turnover contracted faster than foreign activity — not a signal of renewed international conviction.

SECTION 9 | INVESTMENT THEME
Theme — Rotation Into Banks, Out of Cyclical

OBSERVATION	First HoldCo's ▲147% YTD re-rating (52x, now NGX's largest bank by market cap) has occurred alongside GTCO (18.59x), Zenith (9.51x), and Access (8.88x) still trading at single-to-low-double-digit multiples against a 40.88x Market P/E. The Banking Index led all sectors this week at ▲8.35% WoW, while H1 earnings season is only beginning.
DRIVER	First HoldCo's ₦653.5bn H1 pre-tax profit (▲83.5% YoY) triggered the rally, and the CBN's July 20–21 MPC hold at 26.5% preserves elevated net interest margins and treasury income for the sector. FGN 10-year yields near 18.34% keep Tier-1 banks' fixed-income books profitable while their equity multiples remain compressed relative to earnings growth.
IMPLICATION	Zenith, GTCO, UBA, and Access screen as the highest-conviction one-week trades into H1 earnings releases, given the combination of low starting multiples and momentum precedent from First HoldCo's post-earnings pop. Positive EPS or dividend surprises from any Tier-1 bank could trigger a similar re-rating given how far below Market P/E these names still sit.
RISK	A hawkish MPC shift or a sharp Treasury bill yield spike would rotate liquidity out of equities and compress bank trading volumes regardless of earnings quality. A weak H1 print from any FUGAZ name — particularly on cost of risk or loan growth — would invalidate the sector-wide momentum thesis and could trigger profit-taking across recently appreciated banking counters, as already seen Friday when Fidelity (▼4.55%) and UBA (▼4.37%) pulled back despite the sector's weekly gain.

SECTION 10 | OUTLOOK — SECTORAL VIEWS & EVENTS TO WATCH
Sectoral Outlook — Coming Week

Sector	View	Conviction	Rationale
Banking	OW	H	▲ 8.35% WoW sector leader on First HoldCo's ₦653.5bn H1 profit; GTCO (18.59x), Zenith (9.51x), Access (8.88x) all trade well below the 40.88x Market P/E.
Consumer Goods	N	M	▼ 3.76% WoW on Nestlé/BUA Foods' 10% single-session plunge; BUA Foods' ~5% free float distorts price discovery, and Cadbury's P/E crossing 100x (105.4x) signals valuation stretch in select names.
Oil & Gas	OW	M	Brent ▲ 11.15 WoW to $97.24/bbl supports upstream revenue, but Seplat's 53.43x P/E already prices in much of the Gulf-tension premium.
Industrial Goods	OW	M	▲ 5.01% WoW, strongest momentum after Banking; Dangote Cement's Q2 results (due 24 Jul per prior editions) are the next re-rating catalyst pending confirmation.
Insurance	N	L	▲ 3.86% WoW this week but ▼ 0.80% YTD — gains look episodic rather than structural, and the sector lacks the earnings visibility banks currently offer.
Telco (MTN/Airtel)	N	L	Airtel Africa (▲ 156% YTD) and MTNN (▲ 62% YTD) both closed flat WoW; re-rating largely complete, limited near-term catalysts beyond FX stabilization.

OW = Overweight (expect outperformance) · N = Neutral · UW = Underweight · H/M/L = High/Medium/Low conviction

▲ BULLISH FACTORS

- Banking Index advance/decline ratio strengthened to 1.50x from 1.26x, confirming broadening market participation beyond single-name momentum.
- Naira parallel-official spread narrowed to 4.2% (₦57.24) as the bureau rate strengthened to ₦1,420 from ₦1,425, signaling incremental FX convergence.
- Dangote Petroleum Refinery's $2.5bn private equity placement (3.7x oversubscribed) reinforces institutional confidence in Nigerian corporate credit ahead of its September listing.

▼ BEARISH RISKS

- CBN held MPR at 26.5% for a second consecutive meeting, citing Gulf-tension-driven oil volatility — a hawkish hold that keeps fixed-income competition for equity flows elevated (FGN 10-year yield at 18.34%, up from 17.00%).
- FPI net outflow widened to -₦43.37bn in June from -₦8.41bn in May, with the Buy/Sell ratio deteriorating to 0.62 from 0.91 — foreign investor conviction is weakening even as headline turnover share rose.
- MECURE's ▼ 26.97% weekly collapse with no clear catalyst in this week's briefings raises data-quality and volatility flags for smaller-cap healthcare names.

Events to Watch — Next Week

Date	Event Type	Details & Why It Matters
Late Jul/Aug 2026	Q2/H1 earnings season continues (banks, consumer, industrials)	Primary near-term price driver; First HoldCo's post-earnings pop is the template for how Zenith, GTCO, UBA could react to strong prints.
Next NTB auction	Treasury bill yield-setting	A sharp yield spike would rotate liquidity out of equities broadly; moderating yields support Banking sector re-rating.
September 2026	Dangote Refinery's proposed IPO/listing	Structural overhang for Industrial Goods and Oil & Gas positioning; the $2.5bn placement is a leading indicator of investor appetite.
