Nigeria

Report Date 03 Aug 2026	Coverage Period 27 July – 31 Jul 2026	Prepared By Equinox Research	Edition Vol. 1 No. 7
----------------------------	--	---------------------------------	-------------------------

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- Global equities closed higher on megacap AI earnings, the S&P 500 ▲1.05% to 7,489.72, though the Fed's hold with three of twelve members dissenting toward a hike steepened the curve.
- Nigeria's ASI fell ▼0.84% to 245,283.68 on ₦404.76bn of turnover — up ▲32.2% WoW — leaving market capitalisation at ₦158.33tn and the YTD return at ▲57.62%, with breadth deteriorating to a 0.59x advance/decline ratio.
- Insurance was the sole sector gainer at ▲1.72% against Consumer Goods ▼2.29%, while First HoldCo absorbed ₦213.87bn of turnover — 53% of market value — yet closed ▼3.96%.
- The naira firmed ▲0.40% to ₦1,360.00 official but the parallel rate widened to ₦1,425.00, a ₦65.00 spread, with MPR held at 26.50% and June CPI stalling at 15.91%.
- Zenith, GTCO, UBA, Access and Stanbic have yet to report H1 2026 or declare interim dividends, the week's dominant catalyst against Dangote Refinery's c.$1bn IPO filing.

Market Outlook — Coming Week

- Tier-1 bank H1 results are the week's binary event. Zenith's board met 29 July with the closed period still running; declarations are expected in the first half of August. At 9.29x and 9.35x, Zenith and Access carry the cheapest large-cap multiples on the exchange against a 26.50% MPR.
- The dividend calendar supplies mechanical demand into mid-month — NGX Group ₦1.30 pays 5 August, HBM Nigeria qualifies 12 August, Unilever pays 14 August, MTNN qualifies 20 August. Expect capture-driven support in the largest caps, followed by ex-date drag.
- Breadth, not price, is the signal to monitor. The ASI holds above the 241,000–245,000 band, converting it to support, but a 0.59x advance/decline ratio on rising volume points to distribution. Sustained closes above 245,000 would confirm the breakout; a break below 241,000 invalidates it.
- Two overhangs cap upside: the FGN 10-yr at 18.34% and NTB rates at 20–22% continue diverting foreign capital, which fell to 12.07% of H1 turnover from 27% in 2025, while Dangote Refinery's SEC filing for a September listing sets a competing claim on domestic liquidity.

SECTION 1 | GLOBAL MARKETS SNAPSHOT

Index / Market	This Week Close	WoW %	MoM %	YTD %	52-Wk High	52-Wk Low
S&P 500 (USA)	7,489.72	▲1.05%	▼0.13%	▲9.41%	7,609.78	6,238.01

KOSPI (South Korea)	6,595.45	▼1.42%	▼22.19%	▲56.51%	9,114.55	3,119.41

Global Markets Commentary

- Megacap AI earnings drove the week's dominant narrative, with Microsoft ▲15.51% and Amazon's revenue beat reversing capex-overspend fears. S&P 500 ▲1.05% WoW to 7,489.72, though still ▼0.13% MoM and 1.6% below its 52-week high.
- The Fed held rates steady with three of twelve policymakers dissenting toward a hike, steepening the curve: 10-year ▲to 4.7102%, 30-year ▲to 5.2509%. Dollar index closed 99.90, ▼1.6% on the week on yen intervention.
- Brent round-tripped $87.70 to $90.09 as Hormuz strikes resumed and US crude stocks hit 2018 lows — supportive for Nigerian fiscal receipts, with DBS guiding an $80–100 near-term range.
- Asia diverged sharply: Nikkei ▼0.39% WoW and ▼8.14% MoM despite ▲27.86% YTD; the KOSPI's ▼22.19% MoM against a ▲56.51% YTD gain took the index to 6,595.45, sitting 27.6% below its 9,114.55 fifty-two-week high, so a strong year-to-date return survives a sharp late-cycle reversal.

Frontier Africa Commentary

- South Africa's JSE led WoW at ▲1.92% to 111,493.10, aided by a ▲1.73% rand rally to 16.54, but remains the only tracked market negative YTD at ▼3.75%. Ghana's GSE Composite retains the YTD crown at ▲75.99%.
- Egypt was the weakest performer, EGX 30 ▼0.91% to 53,442.20, with Nigeria close behind at ▼0.84% — both consolidating after strong MoM runs of ▲5.85% and ▲6.92% respectively. Kenya's NSE ASI ▲1.88% on ▲6.12% MoM momentum.
- African FX firmed broadly against the dollar as the DXY fell to 99.90. The cedi was the outlier at ▼0.44% WoW. The two year-to-date figures measure different things and do not conflict: our table shows USD/GHS ▲7.06% YTD, equivalent to cedi depreciation of 6.59%, while African Markets ranks the cedi weakest of 17 African currencies at ▼11.6% as at 28 Jul 2026 on a differently constructed basket.

Week of: 31 July 2026

- Naira divergence widened: official 1,360.00 (▼0.40% WoW, ▼5.98% YTD) versus parallel 1,425.00 (▲1.06% WoW), stretching the spread to ₦65.00 or 4.78%. A second consecutive week of widening appears consistent with retail dollar demand the official window is not clearing.

SECTION 3 | NIGERIA — MARKET PULSE

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX All-Share Index closed at 245,283.68, ▼0.84% WoW and ▼2,073.72 points, reversing the prior week's ▲1.60% gain and trimming YTD return to ▲57.62% from ▲58.96%. Market capitalisation fell ₦1.26tn to ₦158.33tn. The pullback is consistent with profit-taking at elevated levels rather than a demand failure — the index remains ▲93.6% above its 52-week low of 126,689.54.
- Liquidity strengthened materially even as prices fell. Total value traded rose ₦98.62bn to ₦404.76bn (▲32.2% WoW), volume rose ▲15.5% to 5.12bn shares, and deal count rose ▲11.6% to 285,223.
- That combination is consistent with institutional repositioning and block activity rather than retail exit, though one week of flow data alone cannot conclusively separate distribution from portfolio rotation, index rebalancing or dividend positioning. Market breadth deteriorated materially: 33 advancers against 56 decliners for an advance/decline ratio of 0.59x, down from 1.50x, with 58 issues unchanged.
- Structurally, the ASI sits 3.46% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42 and closed at 245,283.68 — marginally above the 241,000–245,000 resistance band but not yet clear of it. Confirmation is therefore still pending: two or more sustained closes above 245,000 on comparable volume would establish the band as support.

NGX Sovereign Bond Index	668.97	667.16	0.27%	▼ 0.84%	▼ 1.93%	▼ 0.84%	▲ Positive

Market Snapshot Commentary

- Insurance was the sole meaningful gainer, ▲ 1.72% WoW to 1,200.08, as LASACO, LINKASSURE and SUNU Assurance posted near-limit gains on Tuesday, lifting the index ▲ 2.33% in a single session and offsetting Thursday's ▼ 2.26% reversal. Consumer Goods was the clear laggard, ▼ 2.29% to 4,405.53 and the only sector negative MoM at ▼ 4.11%, weighed by Nestlé losses and valuation-driven selling in Nigerian Breweries, International Breweries and Cadbury. Insurance carries under 1% of NGX market capitalisation, so the move is unlikely to alter institutional portfolio positioning.
- Banking held up better than headline weakness suggested at ▼ 0.69%, retaining a ▲ 22.10% MoM gain on First HoldCo's 131.13% July surge, though Thursday's ▼ 2.04% drop on ₦196.20bn of First HoldCo turnover appears consistent with institutional distribution. Oil & Gas (▼ 0.24%) and Industrial Goods (▼ 0.20%) were near-flat but lead YTD at ▲ 96.32% and ▲ 85.42%.
- Investor positioning appears to be rotating toward more defensive assets, with the Sovereign Bond Index ▲ 0.27% while equities softened. H1 earnings, dividend declarations and banking recapitalisation news over the coming fortnight should confirm or refute this.

Market Movers Commentary

- First HoldCo dominated flow at ₦213.87bn traded on 1.74bn shares — 53% of weekly market value — yet closed ▼ 3.96% at ₦119.95, marking distribution after July's 131.13% surge. Insurance mid-caps produced the week's sharpest two-way volatility: LASACO ▲ 18.68% to ₦2.16 against Fortis Global ▼ 16.13% and Veritas Kapital ▼ 15.38%, a hallmark of speculative rotation rather than fundamentals. International Breweries fell ▼ 13.87% despite H1 pre-tax profit ▲ 22% on margin recovery. The disconnect resolves on sequencing: the stock lost ▼ 9.85% on Monday 27 Jul, before results were released on 30 Jul.

Market Movers Commentary

- Large caps outperformed on the downside, with six of ten watch-list names flat WoW against the ASI's ▼ 0.84%.
- Banking stocks accounted for most of the week's downside: Zenith ▼ 3.60% to ₦120.40, First HoldCo ▼ 3.96% to ₦119.95 and Access Corp ▼ 3.33% to ₦26.10, unwinding the prior week's ▲ 25.59% and ▲ 16.80% respectively — profit-taking after the ▲ 22.10% MoM banking run rather than a re-rating.
- Airtel Africa held ₦5,801.40 and ▲ 155.57% YTD, the single largest ASI contributor. Seplat was unchanged at ₦11,363.90; the more informative reference than spot Brent is that Q1 revenue of $840.7m and net income of $37.9m were published on 16 Jul with no subsequent revision to production or lifting guidance, leaving the equity without a fresh catalyst.

NGX Large Cap: Market Cap, YTD Performance and Sector

Market Movers Commentary

A second reordering follows last week's: MTN Nigeria has overtaken Dangote Cement to become NGX's second most valuable listing at ₦17.57tn versus ₦17.45tn. The reconciliation resolves in favour of a price move rather than a flat week: ₦827.00 to ₦857.10 is ▲3.64% WoW, consistent with the YTD return rising from ▲61.84% to ▲67.73%. The 0.00% WoW carried in the Section 5 tables is a source-file error.

- Telecoms (blue) — Airtel Africa remains the most valuable large-cap at ₦21.0tn, flat WoW at ₦5,801.40 (▲155.57% YTD), and the single largest contributor to the ASI's ▲57.62%. MTNN second at ₦17.57tn.
- Industrial (green) — Dangote Cement slips to third at ₦17.45tn, flat WoW at ₦1,034.00 (▲69.79% YTD). Industrial Goods Index ▼0.20% WoW, ▲85.42% YTD.
- Consumer goods (pink) — BUA Foods fourth at ₦15.21tn, flat at ₦845.10 with the weakest large-cap YTD at ▲5.78% on a ~5% free float. The ₦15.21tn figure is taken directly from the NGX P/E file of 31 Jul 2026; last week's ₦16.9tn was an internal estimate and is superseded. Nestlé ₦2.23tn, flat at ₦2,812.50 (▲44% YTD, 68.1x).
- Oil & gas (amber) — Seplat ₦6.82tn, unchanged at ₦11,363.90 (▲102.57% YTD, 53.4x), still the segment's richest multiple despite Brent ▲22.86% MoM.
- Banking (purple) — First HoldCo holds its new top-bank position at ₦5.89tn (▲145.80% YTD, 55.6x) despite ▼3.96% to ₦119.95, with cap rising on recapitalisation share issuance rather than price. GTCO ₦4.72tn edges ahead of Zenith ₦4.63tn after Zenith's ▼3.60%. AccessCorp remains the laggard at ₦1.35tn (▲13.48% YTD, 9.3x).

Week of: 31 July 2026

The structural signal: the four largest caps were all flat WoW while every bank on the list fell, reversing July's rotation. Banking's ▲ 22.10% MoM re-rating is now being funded out of, not into, the index — cap hierarchy is shifting on share issuance and telecom weight, not on price momentum.

Macro Commentary

- The naira firmed to ₦1,360.00 official, ▲ ₦5.47 or 0.40% WoW and ▼ 5.98% YTD, aided by a dollar index that fell to 99.90. The parallel rate moved the other way, ▲ ₦15.00 to ₦1,425.00 (▲ 1.06%), widening the spread to ₦65.00 or 4.78% — the second consecutive week of divergence and a signal of retail dollar demand the official window is not clearing. Cross rates split: GBP/NGN ▲ 0.57% to ₦1,836.27 on sterling's ▲ 0.76% post-BoE move, while EUR/NGN was flat at ₦1,567.67 (▼ 0.01%).
- The MPR held at 26.50% for a second consecutive meeting, unanimously, with the corridor at +50/-450bps and CRR at 45%/16%. June CPI printed 15.91% YoY, ▼ 2bps from 15.93% — disinflation has effectively stalled. The FGN 10-yr repriced to 18.34% from 17.00%, ▲ 134bps, leaving a real yield of ▲ 243bps and consistent with aggressive federal borrowing; the DMO allotted only ₦929.3bn of a ₦1.2tn July offer despite ₦1.7tn of bids, indicating price discipline rather than weak demand.
- Brent closed $87.93/bbl, ▲ $1.05, though Reuters marked Friday at $90.09 after Hormuz tanker turnarounds and US crude stocks at 2018 lows. Bonny Light was $96.75/bbl, ▼ $1.69, on a 24 Jul estimate. The apparent $8.82 premium to Brent is not like-for-like: it sets a 24 Jul Bonny Light estimate against a 31 Jul Brent close, in a week when Brent round-tripped from $87.70 to $90.09. Bonny Light is a light sweet grade and structurally trades at a premium to Brent. Reserves eased to $51.92bn, ▼ $0.12bn, still ~9 months of import cover. Gold ▼ 0.32% to $4,042.68/oz.
- Events to watch next week: NGX Group ₦1.30 interim dividend payment, 5 August; Zenith Bank H1 2026 audited results and interim dividend, expected first half of August (board met 29 July, closed period still running); NBS July CPI release, mid-August.

SECTION 8 | NIGERIA — MARKET METRICS & VALUATION
Valuation Metrics

Metric	Current (24 Jul 2026)	Prior Week (17 Jul 2026)	Change
Market P/E Ratio (large-cap, cap-weighted)	39.78x	40.88x	▼ -1.10
Banking Sector avg P/E	18.81x	18.87x	▼ -0.06
Consumer Goods avg P/E	53.43x	53.94x	▼ -0.51
Oil & Gas avg P/E	37.71x	37.31x	▲ +0.40
Market Dividend Yield (avg)	▲ 3.75% (carried forward)	▲ 3.75%	n/a

"Market P/E" uses the NGX Main Board cap-weighted total (39.78x, from 40.88x last week), which naturally excludes the Premium Board's extreme outliers (MTNN 82,252.4x; Dangote Cement 1,644.1x) since those names sit on the Premium Board, not the Main Board. Main Board market capitalisation totalled ₦95.51tn against a Premium Board total of ₦62.05tn.

Sector averages are simple (equal-weighted) averages of constituents across all boards that carry a reported P/E, excluding any individual constituent with a P/E above 100x as a statistical outlier - consistent with the treatment applied to the headline Market P/E figure.

Banking (7 constituents, unchanged from last week) excludes Wema Bank (731.5x, from 802.1x) and Jaiz Bank (299.3x, from 314.9x), both still distorted by post-recapitalisation EPS dilution, though both multiples compressed materially this week. First HoldCo (55.6x, up from 51.8x on continued holdco-level earnings dilution) and Access Corp (9.3x, from 10.4x) sit under NGX's "Other Financial Institutions" subsector and are therefore outside the Banking average by classification. Zenith remains the cheapest bank on the list at 9.29x, with UBA at 10.99x.

Consumer Goods (7 constituents, unchanged from last week: NB, Dangote Sugar, Honeywell Flour, Nestle, Nigerian Enamelware, Vitafoam, McNichols). Cadbury remains excluded for a second consecutive week at 100.7x, down from 105.4x - it is now within 0.7x of re-entering the average, which would mechanically lift the sector figure next week. The -0.51 point move this week is a genuine constituent-level re-rating rather than the methodology-driven shift seen last week.

Oil & Gas (5 constituents: Japaul Gold, Oando, Conoil, Eterna, Seplat) excludes TotalEnergies Marketing Nigeria (117.6x, unchanged). Aradel Holdings remains excluded as it has not reported P/E. The +0.40 point rise is driven by Seplat (53.43x) and Conoil (76.35x); Japaul Gold at 0.25x continues to depress the simple average and is the single largest source of distortion in this sector figure.

Market Dividend Yield is carried forward unchanged from last week's edition; NGX did not publish an updated market-wide yield for the week to 31 Jul 2026. The next scheduled update is the monthly NGX factsheet.

Corporate action note: HBM Nigeria (Lafarge Africa) appears on the Premium Board with a published P/E of 126.7x for the first time in this series, following its H1 2026 filing on 28 July - it is excluded under the >100x rule. No share count changes detected this week for Sterling Bank, Wema Bank, or Jaiz Bank versus last week's P/E file.

Methodology decision: the headline cap-weighted Market P/E is reported unscreened at 39.78x to preserve comparability with prior editions. Presco (780.6x) and Okomu Oil (251.9x) contribute 13.71 of those points; applying the >100x screen to the cap-weighted total as well would give 26.07x. Both figures are disclosed and the unscreened number remains the headline until the series is formally rebased.

Week of: 31 July 2026

Metric	Current (June-26)	Prior (May-26)	Trend
FPI as % of Total Turnover	10.90%	9.45%	↑

Source: NGX Domestic & Foreign Portfolio Investment Report, June 2026. Total market transactions fell 11.82% MoM to ₦1.71359tn from ₦1.94325tn in May, even as total foreign transactions rose 1.73% MoM to ₦0.18679tn (₦186.79bn) from ₦0.18361tn — the FPI share-of-turnover increase (9.45% → 10.90%) is a function of the shrinking total pie, not stronger foreign conviction, as the Buy/Sell ratio and Net Flow both worsened. Exchange rate used: ₦1,379.68/$1 (NAFEM, 30 Jun 2026), versus ₦1,373.25/$1 in May.

Valuation Commentary

- Banking trades at 18.81x on average, but the dispersion matters more than the mean: Zenith 9.29x and Access 9.35x against GTCO 18.31x and First HoldCo 55.64x.
- GTCO's near-double multiple should not be read as a simple arbitrage. The market's rationale rests on the strongest return-on-equity and cost-to-income profile in the FUGAZ group and a correspondingly lighter recapitalisation burden — earnings quality the discounted names have yet to demonstrate through a full post-recapitalisation cycle. First HoldCo's 55.64x, by contrast, reflects holdco-level earnings dilution rather than a growth premium. Seplat at 53.43x and Nestlé at 68.09x price in a recovery H1 earnings have yet to deliver, against a market multiple of 39.78x. Dangote Cement (1,644.1x) and MTN Nigeria (82,252.4x) sit on depressed post-FX-loss earnings bases and are excluded under the >100x rule; NGX did not publish a P/E for BUA Foods or Airtel Africa on the 31 Jul file.
- FPI flows deteriorated in June: foreign buying fell to ₦71.71bn against ₦115.08bn in sales, a net outflow of -₦43.37bn versus -₦8.41bn in May. Foreign share of turnover actually rose to 10.90% from 9.45%, but only because total market turnover contracted faster than foreign activity — not a signal of renewed international conviction.

SECTION 9 | INVESTMENT THEME
Theme — Rotation Into Banks, Out of Cyclical

OBSERVATION	Four of Nigeria's five largest banks have not yet reported H1 2026 results, with Zenith, GTCO, UBA, Access Holdings and Stanbic IBTC all outstanding as at 31 July. The banks that have reported delivered materially: First HoldCo PBT ▲83.5% YoY to ₦653.5bn, FCMB net interest income ▲71.81% to ₦356.35bn. Zenith's board met 29 July to consider audited accounts and an interim dividend, with the closed period still running.
DRIVER	Banking earnings are being carried by rate exposure the MPC has now held twice — MPR at 26.50%, NTB stop rates at 20–22%, and a repricing 10-yr at 18.34%. Recapitalisation has simultaneously expanded balance sheets and diluted EPS, leaving Zenith at 9.29x and Access at 9.35x while the Banking Index ran ▲22.10% MoM. Last week's ▼0.69% pullback removed some of that froth ahead of the prints.
IMPLICATION	The setup favours the cheap, undeclared names, though the case rests on earnings quality as much as on payout. Zenith and Access trade at roughly half GTCO's 18.31x, and NGX interim declarations this cycle have been aggressive — MTNN ₦26.00, HBM ₦16.00. A ₦4–5 Zenith interim against a ₦120.40 price could provide short-term support provided the accompanying results confirm stable cost of risk and post-recapitalisation capital adequacy; a high payout on deteriorating asset quality would not. The underlying re-rating argument is that recapitalisation has depressed reported ROE through equity expansion rather than earnings deterioration, which reverses as the new capital is deployed into loan growth.
RISK	Three things break it. Declarations that disappoint against the MTNN benchmark turn the sector into a sell-the-news trade, particularly after First HoldCo's ₦213.87bn of distribution volume last week. Cost of risk surprises on expanded loan books would hit the same names hardest. And a July CPI print reversing the 15.91% trend, or a widening ₦65.00 parallel spread, would pull FPI further toward the 20% risk-free bid that already kept foreign participation at 12.07% of H1 turnover.

SECTION 10 | OUTLOOK — SECTORAL VIEWS & EVENTS TO WATCH
Sectoral Outlook — Coming Week

Sector	View	Conviction	Rationale
Banking	OW	H	Four of five tier-1 names have yet to report H1 2026, with Zenith at 9.29x and Access at 9.35x against a 26.50% MPR and interim dividends still undeclared.
Consumer Goods	N	M	The only sector negative MoM at ▼4.11%, but Nigerian Breweries PBT ▲18% to ₦156.30bn and Unilever operating profit ▲72.8% signal margin recovery the index has not yet priced.
Oil & Gas	OW	M	Best YTD performer at ▲96.32% with Brent in an $87.93–$90.09 range. Seplat's flat ₦11,363.90 reflects the absence of a production or lifting-guidance update since Q1 results on 16 Jul rather than any one-week read-across from spot crude.
Industrial Goods	N	M	Dangote Cement H1 PBT ▲34% and HBM ▲59.08% on 62.18% gross margins are strong, but ▲85.42% YTD and a ₦45.00 payout already ratified limit further re-rating.
Insurance	N	L	Only sector positive WoW at ▲1.72%, yet ▲0.90% YTD versus ▲9.28% MoM shows the move is speculative mid-cap churn — LASACO ▲18.68% against Fortis ▼16.13% in the same week.
Telco (MTN/Airtel)	N	M	MTNN revenue ▲25.9% to ₦2.99tn with a ₦26.00 interim, and Airtel EBITDA margin 50.1%, but at ₦17.57tn and ₦21.00tn the two names already carry 24.4% of market cap.

OW = Overweight (expect outperformance) · N = Neutral · UW = Underweight · H/M/L = High/Medium/Low conviction

▲ BULLISH FACTORS

- Liquidity is at an all-time high — H1 equities turnover of ₦9.60tn more than doubled H1 2025's ₦4.19tn and exceeds most prior full-year totals; last week's value traded rose ▲32.2% to ₦404.76bn even as the ASI fell.
- The interim dividend cycle is running hot: MTNN ₦26.00, HBM ₦16.00, NGX Group ₦1.30, Unilever ₦2.00 — with Zenith, GTCO, UBA, Access and Stanbic still to declare.
- External buffers are the strongest in 17 years at $51.92bn, roughly nine months of import cover, against a naira that firmed ▲0.40% to ₦1,360.00 official.

▼ BEARISH RISKS

- Market breadth deteriorated materially — advance/decline fell to 0.59x from 1.50x, with 56 decliners against 33 advancers, while First HoldCo's ₦213.87bn single-name turnover may indicate distribution rather than accumulation.
- The FGN 10-yr repriced ▲134bps to 18.34% and NTB rates sit at 20–22%, keeping foreign capital in risk-free paper; FPI was 12.07% of H1 turnover versus 27% in 2025.
- The parallel-official spread widened to ₦65.00 (4.78%) on a ▲1.06% parallel move, and disinflation has stalled at 15.91% — only ▼2bps MoM.

Events to Watch — Next Week

Date	Event Type	Details & Why It Matters
5 Aug 2026	NGX Group ₦1.30 interim dividend payment; Zenith Bank H1 2026 results and interim dividend expected in the same window	The single largest near-term catalyst for the Banking Index; a soft Zenith declaration against the MTNN benchmark turns the sector into a sell-the-news trade.
12–20 Aug 2026	HBM Nigeria qualification 12 Aug, MTNN qualification 20 Aug, Unilever payment 14 Aug	Concentrated dividend-capture demand in the largest caps; expect mechanical support into qualification and ex-date drag immediately after.
Mid-Aug 2026	NBS July CPI release (June: 15.91% YoY)	A print below 15.91% supports the 241,000–245,000 breakout and the OW banking call; a reversal above 16% revives hike risk into the 307th MPC on 21–22 September.
