INSTITUTIONAL MARKET INTELLIGENCE

Nigeria

Report Date 21 Sep 2026	Coverage Period 14 Sep – 18 Sep 2026	Prepared By Equinox Research	Edition Vol. 1 No. 13
----------------------------	---	---------------------------------	--------------------------

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- The Fed's first hike in more than three years pushed the US 10-year to 5.0064% and capped developed markets, leaving the S&P 500 ▼0.08% WoW while Brent retreated to $103.18 from a $108.61 Tuesday peak.
- The NGX ASI rose ▲2.78% WoW to a record 249,804.56, lifting YTD return to ▲60.53% and capitalisation to ₦162.16tn on ₦237.99bn of value traded, while every other African market fell.
- Banking led at ▲4.43% as financial stocks captured a large share of weekly turnover, against Consumer Goods at ▲0.52%, with NGX Group ▲23.31% on ₦11.06bn traded and John Holt ▼18.89% the week's worst.
- August CPI eased to 15.39% YoY from 15.43% with MoM halving to 0.71%, while the naira held ₦1,328.99 officially, the parallel-market naira appreciated to ₦1,375.00/$ and reserves reached $54.61bn.
- Dangote Refinery's ₦2.15tn offer runs to 13 October and FTSE Russell reclassification takes effect 21 September, against a July FPI net outflow of ₦49.44bn and the 307th MPC convening the same week.

Market Outlook — Coming Week

- The 21 September convergence is unchanged from last week's flag but the setup is not. FTSE Russell reclassification, the 307th MPC and the Dangote Cement London Capital Markets Day all land on the same day, now into a market that has already run ▲2.78% and sits 1.68% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42. Buying the reclassification before implementation was the trade; the question from Monday is whether flows persist past the first two sessions.
- Breadth reversed decisively, and that is the week's most informative number. The advance/decline ratio swung to 1.11x from 0.07x, with 50 advancers against 45 decliners, while volume fell ▼13.2% to 2.69bn shares on turnover ▲82.9% to ₦237.99bn. The combination of higher value traded and lower share volume indicates turnover was concentrated in higher-priced counters. Financial services cleared 422m shares across 20,251 deals on Wednesday alone and Zenith, GTCO and Fidelity carried the three largest value lines of the week, so that concentration sits in banking, which is consistent with positioning around the index event.
- The banking rebound reversed the prior week's liquidity raising almost exactly. The four largest banks added ₦0.75tn after shedding ₦1.00tn, with First HoldCo ▲8.82% recovering ₦0.57tn of the ₦0.66tn it lost. The view stays a stock call rather than an index call: Zenith at 9.65x and Access at 10.36x against First HoldCo at 68.72x is a wider spread than a week ago, not a narrower one.
- The relative value case is the open risk. At 18.82x excluding constituents above 100x, equities offer a 5.31% earnings yield against a 365-day Treasury bill at 19.77% and the new 10 year FGN clearing at 16.79%. Disinflation is now three months old and primary yields have fallen 94bp on the June 2038 reopening, so the gap is closing from the fixed income side, but it has roughly 14 percentage points to travel before equities win on value rather than on flows.

Global Markets Commentary

- The Fed's first rate hike in more than three years defined the week, pushing 10-year yields above the 5% threshold to 5.0064% and capping developed markets: S&P 500 ▼0.08% WoW, STOXX 600 ▼0.57%.
- Oil dictated the inflation narrative. Brent peaked at $108.61 on Yanbu loading suspensions before closing ▼1.56% at $103.18 after Chinese intervention on Houthi attacks. Gold reclaimed $4,377.38, ▲0.86%, as energy pressure eased.
- AI safety warnings from Anthropic, OpenAI and xAI leadership drove a 5.86% Monday collapse in the PHLX chip index, the week's single sharpest factor move, though technology recovered into Friday to leave Nasdaq ▲0.7% WoW.
- Asia outperformed on dollar strength, with the index at 100.19 and yen at 156.72. Nikkei 225 ▲1.57%, Shanghai ▲0.61%, KOSPI ▼0.23% but ▲59.97% YTD.

FX tables are quoted on the currency-pair convention: a negative figure denotes a fall in USD/NGN, that is, naira appreciation. Narrative commentary states moves on the naira and is signed accordingly.

Frontier Africa Commentary

- Nigeria was the standout, NGX ASI ▲2.78% WoW to 249,804.56 and ▲60.53% YTD, as the ₦2.15tn Dangote Refinery IPO at ₦525 per share drew retail flows through fintech and mobile-money rails from 14 September.

- Every other African market fell. Kenya was the weakest performer, NSE ASI ▼2.50% to 238.61, with Ghana ▼2.07%, South Africa ▼1.88% and Egypt ▼1.39%, a broad pullback consistent with the 5% US 10-year yield repricing global risk appetite.
- FX pressure was uniform against the dollar. The official naira weakened 0.14% to ₦1,328.99 while the parallel rate firmed 1.08% to ₦1,375.00, narrowing the spread to ₦46.01. The Egyptian pound lost 1.51%, the rand 0.95%.
- YTD divergence remains extreme: Ghana ▲63.09% and Nigeria ▲60.53% against South Africa ▼2.44%. Domestic capital mobilisation is the structural theme, with African institutional investors holding $4tn but allocating only 2.7% to productive sectors.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- The NGX All-Share Index closed at 249,804.56, ▲2.78% WoW and a 6,751.82-point gain that reversed the prior week's ▼1.60% decline and lifted YTD returns to ▲60.53% from ▲56.19%. Market capitalisation rose ₦4,570bn to ₦162,157bn. The Dangote Refinery listing, a ₦2.15tn offer of 4.1bn shares at ₦525, anchored the advance and pulled retail participation onto the exchange through fintech and mobile-money distribution channels.
- Turnover confirmed the move. Value traded reached ₦237.99bn against ₦130.15bn the prior week, ▲82.9%, while deal count rose 17.6% to 287,919 from 244,777. Volume fell to 2.69bn shares from 3.10bn, ▼13.2%, indicating rotation into higher-priced counters rather than broad speculative churn.
- Breadth turned decisively. Advancers outnumbered decliners 50 to 45 for an A/D ratio of 1.11x, against 0.07x the prior week when 92 counters fell against 6 advancing. The ASI now sits 1.68% below its 52-week high of 254,067.42 and 97.2% above the 126,689.54 low.

Market Snapshot Commentary

- Banking led all sectors, ▲4.43% WoW to 2,640.90 and ▲27.57% QtD, as financial stocks captured a large share of turnover during the Dangote IPO subscription period. Sterling, Zenith, GTCO, Access and Fidelity dominated turnover all week, with Wema ▲9.03% and First HoldCo ▲8.11% on Friday alone. Consumer Goods was the weakest, ▲0.52% to 4,069.22, held back by Cadbury ▼9.32%, PZ Cussons ▼9.52% and Honeywell ▼2.50%, leaving the sector ▼11.43% QtD and ▲2.36% YTD against an ASI ▲60.53%.
- Insurance ▲3.79% and Pension ▲3.57% confirmed the financials bid, while Industrial Goods ▲3.12% recovered on BUA Cement and Beta Glass both hitting 10% limits Thursday. Oil & Gas ▲3.71% retains the YTD crown at ▲125.94%, with Aradel anchored at ₦1,550.00.
- Watch whether banking QtD leadership extends or rotates into Consumer Goods on valuation as the IPO window runs to 13 October.

Market Movers Commentary

- NGX Group ▲23.31% to ₦182.50 on ₦11.06bn traded is the week's clearest market read-through: the exchange operator is the direct fee beneficiary of the ₦2.15tn Dangote listing and a 30-day subscription window closing 13 October.
- Sovereign Trust ▲40.48% led a retail-driven insurance bid alongside Mutual Benefits ▲11.86% on 166.5m shares.
- Ecobank ▼10.00% hit the limit down on Tuesday without disclosed cause.

MTNN	MTN Nigeria	815	811	+0.48%	15,814,133	+59%	87,460.69	P/E of 87,460x on the NGX list is not meaningful. It reflects a near zero trailing earnings base, not a valuation signal. Price up 0.48% on the week to ₦815.
GTCO	GTCO	130	130	+0.15%	128,063,764	+41%	18.31	At 18.3x, mid range among the banks on this list. The stock added just 0.15% while the NGX Banking Index rose 4.43%, so GTCO sat out the sector rebound.
DANGCEM	Dangote Cement	1,034	1,034	0.00%	1,231,410	+70%	1,669.55	P/E of 1,670x is distorted by a depressed trailing earnings base and should not be read as a valuation. Price unchanged at ₦1,034 for the week.
ACCESCORP	Access Holdings	29	29	+0.69%	101,832,221	+27%	10.36	At 10.4x, the second cheapest name in the watch list. Up 0.69% against a 4.43% gain for the Banking Index.

SEPLAT	Seplat Energy	14,908	14,908	0.00%	330,578	+166%	70.09	Trades at 70.1x. Price unchanged at N14,907.80 after a 10.00% gain the previous week. The Oil and Gas Index rose 3.71% this week and is up 125.94% YTD.

Market Movers Commentary

- Large caps were mixed. Against an ASI ▲2.78%, MTN ▲9.74% and Dangote Cement ▲1.55% outperformed, while GTCO ▲0.15% and Access ▲0.69% lagged and BUA Foods, Airtel and Seplat were unchanged. The banking bid was narrow: GTCO and Zenith ▲2.47% both trailed the Banking Index's ▲4.43% despite carrying the heaviest turnover at ₦16.65bn and ₦20.78bn.
- First HoldCo ▲17.65% to ₦160.00 was the exception, at 68.7x against Zenith at 9.7x and Access at 10.4x. The unusually wide dispersion warrants investigation: First HoldCo's multiple may reflect a temporarily depressed earnings base, while the lower multiples at Zenith, Access and GTCO may reflect different earnings and capitalisation expectations.
- Nestlé ▲3.57% at 70.2x materially outpaced Consumer Goods ▲0.52%.

NGX Large Cap: Official Market Capitalisation, YTD Performance and Sector

Light = 1 Jan base, dark = YTD gain, hatched = YTD decline. Official NGX market capitalisation, closes of 18 Sep 2026.

Market Movers Commentary

Airtel Africa held ₦23.68tn, unchanged at ₦6,300.00 for a fourth consecutive week, and remains the most capitalised stock on the NGX by a ₦4.99tn margin. MTN Nigeria displaced Dangote Cement for second place, rising ▲9.74% to ₦890.00 for a capitalisation of ₦18.69tn against Dangote Cement at ₦17.72tn, itself ▲1.55% to ₦1,050.00 after seven unchanged weeks. Capitalisations are the official NGX market capitalisations published in the Current Equity P/E Ratios file of 18 Sep 2026, and every price in this section is the 18 Sep official close implied by that file.

- Telecoms (blue): Airtel Africa ₦23.68tn at ₦6,300.00 (▲ +178% YTD), flat on 649,982 shares; MTNN ₦18.69tn at ₦890.00 (▲ +74% YTD restated, ▲ +9.74% WoW) on 15.81m shares and ₦12.85bn traded, the fourth largest value on the exchange.
- Industrial (green): Dangote Cement ₦17.72tn at ₦1,050.00 (▲ +73% YTD restated, ▲ +1.55% WoW) on 1.23m shares, against an Industrial Goods Index that rose ▲ 3.12% WoW.
- Consumer goods (pink): BUA Foods ₦13.69tn at ₦760.60, unchanged for a fifth week and still the only large cap negative YTD at ▼ 5%. Nestlé ₦2.30tn at ₦2,900.00 (▲ +3.57%, 70.2x), outpacing a Consumer Goods Index that added just ▲ 0.52%.
- Oil and gas (amber): Seplat ₦8.94tn, unchanged at ₦14,907.80 on 330,578 shares after the prior week's second ▲ +10.00% limit up (▲ +166% YTD, 70.1x).
- Banking (purple): First HoldCo ₦7.28tn at ₦160.00 (▲ +17.65% WoW, ▲ +228% YTD restated, 68.7x); Zenith ₦5.27tn at ₦128.40 (▲ +2.47%, 9.7x); GTCO ₦4.75tn at ₦130.00 (▲ +0.15%, 18.3x); Access ₦1.59tn at ₦28.19 (▲ +0.69%, 10.4x).

Leadership broadened against last week. Eight of the ten names rose and two were flat, with no decliners, against one riser and five fallers a week ago, and aggregate capitalisation across the ten stood at ₦103.90tn on the official basis. Prior-week aggregates in earlier editions were derived rather than published, so the week-on-week change is not stated here and will be restated once the 11 Sep file is rebuilt on the same basis. First HoldCo ▲ 17.65% more than reversed the ▼ 9.30% fall that preceded the Dangote Refinery subscription opening on 14 Sep, which is consistent with the prior week's selling having been liquidity raising rather than repricing. The valuation dispersion remains the segment's defining feature, First HoldCo at 68.7x against Zenith at 9.7x on the same NGX earnings basis, and it has widened rather than closed through the rebound. Airtel Africa and Seplat illustrate the distinction between index weight and investable liquidity: their capitalisations are ₦23.68tn and ₦8.94tn, but weekly traded volumes were 649,982 and 330,578 shares, modest relative to their size, while Fidelity Bank traded 621.31m shares on a far smaller capitalisation.

Macro Commentary

- The naira depreciated ▼0.14% at the NAFEM window to ₦1,328.99/$, as the dollar index held 100.19 after the Fed's first hike in three years. The parallel-market naira appreciated ▲1.08% to ₦1,375.00/$ from ₦1,390.00/$, narrowing the spread to ₦46.01, or 3.46%. The naira gained against both European currencies, GBP/NGN ▲0.56% to ₦1,777.72 and EUR/NGN ▲0.75% to ₦1,526.08, on dollar strength rather than any domestic shift.
- August CPI eased to 15.39% YoY from 15.43%, ▼4bp, a third consecutive monthly decline and 775bp below the 23.14% of August 2025. Momentum matters more than the headline: MoM inflation more than halved to 0.71% from 1.57% and food MoM collapsed to 1.02% from 5.56%. The MPR has stood at 26.50% since the 306th MPC on 21 July, leaving a real policy rate of 11.11pp. The 10 year FGN yield fell 33bp to 16.79%, the clearing level on the new September 2036 issue against ₦1.49tn of bids.
- Brent closed $103.18, ▼1.47% WoW, after peaking at $108.61 on Tuesday on the Yanbu loading suspension and retreating once China pressed Iran to curb Houthi attacks on Saudi infrastructure. Bonny Light is carried at $126.32 as of 15 Sep, a $23.14 premium to Brent against a normal $1 to $3 differential; the differential has not been verified against a second source and the series is quoted as at 15 Sep, not the 18 Sep close. Foreign-exchange reserves reached $54.61bn on 14 Sep from $54.08bn, ▲$0.53bn or ▲0.98%, their highest level in eighteen years. Gold ▲0.73% to $4,380.01.
- Events to watch next week: FTSE Russell reclassification of Nigeria to Frontier Market status from the market open on Monday 21 Sep; CBN MPC 307th meeting on 21 and 22 Sep, the first decision since August CPI and the oil shock; Dangote Cement Capital Markets Day in London on 21 Sep ahead of the proposed LSE secondary listing.

SECTION 8 | NIGERIA — MARKET METRICS & VALUATION

Source: NGX Current Equity P/E Ratios files of 18 Sep 2026 and 11 Sep 2026. Methodology note: the ratio NGX publishes as the Main Board Market Total (39.47 on 18 Sep 2026) is the sum, across constituents, of market capitalisation divided by total market capitalisation on all boards, multiplied by that constituent's P/E. On 18 Sep 2026 the implied denominator is approximately ₦166.44tn against a Main Board capitalisation of ₦94.42tn, and only ₦32.95tn of Main Board capitalisation carries a published P/E. The ₦166.44tn reconciles to the ₦162.16tn equity market capitalisation reported for 18 Sep plus the ₦3.64tn debt board and ₦0.64tn mutual fund board, so the NGX denominator spans every board, not equities alone. The published figure is therefore a coverage-limited weighted contribution, not a cap-weighted market P/E, and is retained here only for continuity with prior issues. Equinox recomputes a cap-weighted trailing P/E over the covered Main Board universe as total covered capitalisation divided by total covered earnings, where earnings are derived as capitalisation divided by the published P/E. Coverage on 18 Sep 2026 is 78 of 126 Main Board lines, unchanged in count from 11 Sep. Sector figures are equal-weighted trailing P/E across constituents reporting usable data, excluding any constituent above 100x. Banking covers 9 of 11 bank and bank-holdco lines across the Main, Premium and Non-Interest boards, excluding Wema at 807.1x and Jaiz at 273.4x. Consumer Goods covers 7 of 13 Main Board lines, the same seven as on 11 Sep, so the move is a re-rating rather than a composition change. Oil & Gas covers 5 of 6 lines across the Main and Premium boards, excluding TotalEnergies at 105.8x. Both weeks are recomputed on this basis and are not comparable with the 14 Aug 2026 edition carried in prior issues. Market Dividend Yield is unchanged from 14 Aug 2026 and is flagged as carried forward, not as a fresh observation.

Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI)

Valuation Commentary

- Banking at 22.62x sits well below a 29.12x covered covered Main Board cap-weighted trailing P/E, and the sector's own internal spread is wider than the gap to the market: Zenith at 9.65x, Access at 10.36x and GTCO at 18.31x against First HoldCo at 68.72x. The unusually wide dispersion warrants investigation: First HoldCo's 68.72x multiple may reflect a temporarily depressed earnings base, while the lower multiples at Zenith, Access and GTCO may reflect different earnings, capitalisation and asset-quality expectations. First HoldCo is the single largest contributor to the covered Main Board figure at ₦7.28tn of capitalisation.

- Seplat's 70.09x trailing multiple leaves limited support from current earnings and appears to incorporate strong expectations for future earnings and oil-related cash flows. Nestlé at 70.21x carries a comparable multiple on a domestic consumer earnings base that is less exposed to crude price reversal. Dangote Cement at 1,669.55x and BUA Foods, which carries no published P/E, are both excluded as not economically meaningful..
- Foreign participation weakened materially in July. Buying fell to ₦41.59bn against ₦91.03bn of selling, a net outflow of ₦49.44bn, and foreign share of turnover dropped to 5.60% from 10.90% in June as total transactions rose 38.17% to ₦2.37tn. Domestic institutions absorbed the gap, up 66.18% MoM to ₦1.65tn. The FTSE reclassification is a September catalyst against a July flow base that is deteriorating, not stabilising.

SECTION 9 | INVESTMENT THEME
Theme: The rally appears increasingly flow- and event-driven rather than valuation-driven

OBSERVATION	The ASI closed at 249,804.56, ▲60.53% YTD, while the Main Board covered P/E excluding constituents above 100x moved only from 18.73x to 18.82x. That multiple implies an earnings yield of 5.31% against a 365-day Treasury bill at 19.77% and 16.79% on the new 10 year FGN September 2036. On a simple earnings-yield comparison, equities offer 5.31% against 19.77% on the 365-day Treasury bill, a 14.46pp nominal gap before accounting for expected earnings growth and equity risk. The evidence is stronger for multiple stability alongside higher liquidity than for a fundamental earnings re-rating, since a stable multiple on a rising index is also consistent with earnings having risen alongside prices.
DRIVER	Liquidity and event flow, not fundamentals. Value traded rose 82.9% WoW to ₦237.99bn as the ₦2.15tn Dangote Refinery offer pulled retail money onto the exchange through fintech rails, and FTSE Russell restored Frontier Market status from the open on 21 September, restoring Nigeria's eligibility for inclusion in FTSE Frontier indices after its exclusion in September 2023. System liquidity rebounded to ₦2.86tn on 18 September after CBN repayments. Breadth is consistent with that mechanism: the advance/decline ratio swung from 0.07x to 1.11x in a single week.
IMPLICATION	Favour securities likely to receive index-related demand over those that merely screen cheap. Index-eligible large caps with genuine free float and daily liquidity capture the reclassification bid; Airtel at ₦23.68tn on 649,982 shares traded for the week and Seplat at ₦8.94tn on 330,578 have limited demonstrated trading liquidity relative to their market capitalisation. Relative valuation support is clearest in banking, where Zenith trades at 9.65x and Access at 10.36x against a sector average of 22.62x, and both carry the turnover to be accumulated. That discount becomes more meaningful only if earnings growth, capital adequacy and asset-quality trends remain supportive. Avoid paying the covered Main Board cap-weighted trailing P/E of 29.12x, which is held up by ₦7.18tn sitting in four names above 100x.
RISK	Three things break this view. First, if the 21 September inclusion produces a one week flow and then nothing, the liquidity premium unwinds and the 5.31% earnings yield has to compete with a 26.50% MPR on its own merits. Second, if the MPC hikes on 21 and 22 September, the discount rate rises against an already stretched relative valuation. Third, if repatriation friction returns, the offshore bid disappears regardless of index status; the naira at ₦1,328.99 and reserves at $54.61bn are the two variables to watch.

SECTION 10 | OUTLOOK — SECTORAL VIEWS & EVENTS TO WATCH
Sectoral Outlook — Coming Week

Sector	View	Conviction	Rationale
Banking	OW	H	Among large liquid names, Zenith at 9.65x and Access at 10.36x against a sector average of 22.62x, and the ₦20.78bn and ₦16.65bn weekly value traded in Zenith and GTCO give the depth that index-driven flows require.
Consumer Goods	UW	M	The sector's weak YTD performance, ▲2.36% against an ASI ▲60.53%, has not been accompanied by a comparable compression in trailing valuation, and at 58.14x on seven covered names the sector is expensive against a banking sector trading at less than half that multiple while Cadbury ▼9.32% and PZ ▼10.72% show pricing power is not holding.
Oil & Gas	N	L	Current valuations leave limited room for further upside from higher crude unless earnings expectations rise, and the ▲3.71% weekly gain reflects momentum that reverses with the geopolitical premium.
Industrial Goods	N	M	▲3.12% WoW on the BUA Cement and Beta Glass limit moves is event-driven rather than structural, and the 21 September Dangote Cement Capital Markets Day is a potentially material catalyst for ₦17.72tn of the sector's capitalisation.
Insurance	N	L	▲3.79% WoW on retail speculation in Sovereign Trust ▲40.48% and Mutual Benefits ▲11.86% sits against a ▼7.57% YTD, and African Alliance convening an EGM on FY2022 accounts showing a ₦38.08bn retained deficit is a reminder the sector carries issuers with limited analytical visibility because their financial statements are materially stale.
Telco (MTN/Airtel)	UW	L	MTN's published 87,460.69x is not economically meaningful and Airtel carries no published P/E, and Airtel's ₦23.68tn rests on 649,982 shares traded for the week, so index weight runs far ahead of any liquidity an institution could actually use.

OW = Overweight (expect outperformance) · N = Neutral · UW = Underweight · H/M/L = High/Medium/Low conviction

▲ BULLISH FACTORS

- FTSE Russell restores Frontier Market status from the open on 21 September, restoring eligibility for inclusion in FTSE Frontier indices after the 8 September 2023 exclusion, into a market whose value traded already rose 82.9% WoW to ₦237.99bn.
- Disinflation is now three months old and accelerating at the margin: headline 15.39% YoY in August from 15.43%, with MoM more than halving to 0.71% from 1.57% and food MoM collapsing to 1.02% from 5.56%. Primary yields have already followed, the new 10 year clearing at 16.79% against 17.79% on the June 2038 reopening in August.

▼ BEARISH RISKS

- Equities offer a 5.31% earnings yield at 18.82x against a 365-day Treasury bill at 19.77% and an average FGN bond yield at 16.58%. The rally is not winning on relative value, and any pause in flows removes the only thing holding that gap open.
- Concentration is extreme and illiquid. Airtel ₦23.68tn, MTN ₦18.69tn and Dangote Cement ₦17.72tn are 57.8% of the ten largest names on ₦103.90tn, and the first two traded 649,982 and 1.23m shares respectively for the week.
- The Dangote offer closes 13 October. Roughly ₦2.15tn of retail subscription money is currently parked, and a heavily scaled allotment returns capital to accounts with no guarantee it stays on Foreign-exchange reserves are at their highest level in eighteen years. Reserves reached $54.61bn on 14 September, ▲$12.76bn YoY, on a Q2 current account surplus of $7.54bn, ▲67.9% QoQ, with refined product exports ▲66.24% to $3.94bn. The stronger reserve position and higher refined-product exports provide additional support for FX liquidity, although actual investor repatriation conditions remain the more relevant test; FTSE Russell found no material settlement, operational or funding issues following T+1 implementation.	the exchange. The over-allotment provision of up to 30%, subject to regulatory approval, would change the allotment arithmetic materially if exercised..

Events to Watch — Next Week

Date	Event Type	Details & Why It Matters
21 Sep 2026	FTSE Russell Frontier reclassification effective at market open, and Dangote Cement Capital Markets Day in London	Index eligible large caps, particularly Banking and Oil & Gas, are the first recipients of any passive demand; Dangote Cement management guidance is the only near term read on a trailing multiple shown as NM.
21 Sep 2026	Dangote Cement Capital Markets Day, London, ahead of the proposed LSE secondary listing	Dangote Cement has been unchanged at ₦1,034.00 for seven weeks on a published 1,669.55x; any guidance on the listing timetable or on cement pricing is the first catalyst in the name since July.
13 Oct 2026	Dangote Refinery offer closes	Subscription level, retail versus institutional split and the scale of return-of-funds determine whether the retail money that lifted turnover 82.9% stays on the exchange or leaves it.
21 to 22 Sep 2026	CBN MPC meeting	A hold at 26.50% is the base case; any hawkish shift on oil driven inflation pressures Banking and Consumer Goods multiples directly.
